CROSS WORD PUZZLES REACH CENTRAL EUROPE

Fad Gets Even as Far as Balkans Following Spread Among English Speaking People

ROME, March 13.—The cross-word puzzle craze has reached Italy in its triumphal march from the United States.

The engaging pastime which has made dictionaries best sellers, first took Great Britain by storm and then crossed into France where it overcame the prejudices of thousands of citizens of that nation which, more than any other in Europe, had been famous for its philological insularity and for its passionate insistence upon the purity of its verbal expressiveness.

Now, the fad, disguised as "L'Indovinello delle Parole Incrociate" has crossed the Alps into Italy and its proponents predict confidently that nothing can stop its advance into the heart of central Europe and even into the geopraphical crazy quilt of the Balkans where languages and dialects abound.

Foreigners in Italy had for some time interested and disturbed the natives by their peculiar antics and gesticulations in front of black and white squares in foreign newspapers, but it remained for a weekly newspaper to explain the mystery and incidently to introduce the cult.

COVENT GARDEN THEATRE BECOMES A DANCE HALL

Has Been Used for Many Purposes Before But Now Invaded by Jazz

LONDON, March 13—London's famous Covent Garden Theatre, officially known as the Royal Opera House, has come at last under the spell of jazz. The theatre, built in 1858, is to be taken over by a syndicate which gives dances every night in the week at popular prices. This will be the first time that the theatre has been used as a dance hall, although many public dances have been held there in former times. The dancing season will end late in the spring, it is announced, in time for what is to be known as an international season of opera.

The Royal Opera House, which became popularly known as Covent Garden Theatre because of its location near the famous market place, has had varied experiences, having been used for opera, drama, circus, ballet, pantomime, revue and films. During the war it served as a storehouse for furniture from other buildings taken over by the government for office purposes.

Big Craft, Which Nearly Wrecked Near Here, is Now at Rivers Inlet Loading Logs

Wireless has been installed on the big log carrying barge Bingamon. So, if the vessel ever gets into difficulties again like she did near here on her maiden voyage a couple of months ago, she will at least be able to keep in touch with shore. The Bingamon is at present at Rivers Inlet loading logs, having been towed there this week by the tug Pacific Monarch.

BOBBING HAIR GIVES WOMEN EMPLOYMENT

Number of Unemployed Females in Britain Reduced to 250,000

LONDON, Mar. 13. — The women and girls in England are being absorbed back into industry far more quickly than the men and boys, according to recent statistics on unemployment. Hair dressing, owing to the bobbed hair craze, has given employment to a large number of young women who earn better wages than the men barbers because of the extra charges made for trimming bobbed locks. Men in London pay approximately 25 cents for a hair cut, while women pay double that amount.

Last spring there were 300,000 women among the unemployed of Great Britain, while today the number is something like 250,000. Although about 1,000,000 extra women and girls are now at work compared with the figures of the year before the beginning of the war, women and girls together do not represent one-quarter of the total number of unemployed. Government officials say there is every indication that the number of unemployed, both men and women, will be greatly reduced during this year.

A BAD COLD DEVELOPED INTO BRONCHITIS

Mrs. Levi Ogden, Amherst Shore, N.S., writes:—"My baby girl had a very bad cold which turned to bronchitis, and she could not sleep at night for the coughing. I gave her everything I could think of to relieve her, but nothing seemed to do her any good, and she was not getting any better. I was advised, by a friend, to try

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

I did so, and after giving her a few doses I saw good effects so I kept on with it. I gave her two bottles, and her cough soon left her, and now she is as well as can be. I cannot praise 'Dr. Wood's' enough; it is certainly a wonderful medicine."

This preparation has been on the market for the past 35 years; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
