CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Several tons of eskimo carvings have been sent from Ungava Bay to the Canadian Handicraft Guild at Montreal. Most of the work was done in soft stone since ivory is scarce, partly due to the fact there has been no organized walrus hunt by Ungava Eskimos in recent years.

Phone Exchange

"It's time we thought of a new city hall, fire hall and in other words a municipal building . . . which would also house the telephone exchange . . ."

Dr. Large said further: "I think the action of Mr. McLean's is very sound and we should keep after the City for some town planning."

On motion of William F. Stone and seconded by Dr. Large, the members endorsed Alderman McLean's petition although there were several dissenters in the show of hands.

Mr. Stone suggested possible sites for the exchange are next to the city hall, on city property, or on the property where the health clinic and museum are now located.

VOTED FOR IT

Cliff Gilker suggested that 75 per cent of the men in attendance voted for the bylaw on September 11 and "now we are in the position of opposing it and we are the only organization that is objecting.

"Without question we need a new system, but all we're trying to do now is draw a red herring over an issue that has already been settled. I would say we are just running around in circles.

"I doubt if construction would result in any saving to taxpayers.

"The time to have taken the action was before the bylaw was presented to taxpayers. To take it up now is just going to cause dissension . . ."

President Norton Youngs called for support of Mr. McLean's resolution and said no motion was necessary to allow the alderman to give each member of the Chamber a copy of the petition to obtain signatures.

MAIN OBJECTION

Before discussion concluded the municipal committee of the Chamber was instructed to look into other sites and costs and report their findings to the executive.

Main objection to buying the old liquor store for the telephone system is because it is considered one of the city's few remaining good commercial sites and if the municipal telephone system is located in it, there would be no revenue to the city through taxes.

Lou Felsenthal, also objecting to the Chamber's stand, said:

"I personally agree we are too late starting. It's unfortunate Mr. McLean did not object at the time the bylaw was up for discussion. I think that anything done now will also confuse the issue."

J. T. Harvey, on the other hand, said:

"I agree it is a little late but we have gone on record as opposed from a long-range point of view. It is not good policy to use a good commercial site for this purpose and I'm thoroughly in agreement with Mr. McLean."

It Takes a Triple Action Job To Save Your $32,000 Teeth

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — You do your chewing on $32,000 worth of teeth.

Each tooth is worth $1,000, dental experts estimate. And Nature gives you 32. Courts have settled cases on this basis.

But loss of one tooth can cost you more than $1,000. If it's not replaced, one missing tooth can lead to loss of still other teeth. Lose several on one side, and you start chewing on the other side. Result, over-development on that side and a lop-sided face.

Dentists now can promise you life without a toothache, or perhaps even without the loss of a single tooth.

What it takes is stress on prevention, in three ways: prevention of tooth decay, or gum diseases, and of trouble coming from a faulty bite or faulting meshing of the teeth.

The best time to start is childhood. But it's never too late to get some benefits.

SOUND TIPS

The possibilities for happy tooth life are made clear in reports to and tips from the American Dental Association.

1. Decay: Early, frequent checkups can spot decay early and fix cavities while they're still small.

Careful brushing helps keep teeth clear, and aids gum health. After meals is the best time. Tooth decay seems to start within five minutes after you eat.

Sodium fluoride, in drinking water or direct application to children's teeth, definitely cuts down decay.

2. Gum Diseases: Decay is the main threat to teeth up to the age of 30. After that, gum diseases cause more loss of teeth. The gum ailments can be caught early and controlled by periodic treatments.

3. Faults in Bite: Each time you bite, you hit each tooth with pressures ranging up to 350 pounds.

If teeth or jaws are out of balance, even slightly, the pressures are uneven. Unbalanced teeth rock and jar each other, loosen rather than exercise each other. Gums and jawbone also are affected.

BITE IMPORTANT

Faulty meshing of teeth, or malocclusion, is common. One survey found that nearly 80 per cent of high school youngsters had some degrees of malocclusion or crooked teeth. Most can be corrected by simple measures. If one jaw is slightly out of position, muscle training sometimes can make them meet evenly.

Loss of one tooth, from neglect or accident, can throw the bite out of kilter. Teeth on either side of the missing one tend to move together to close the gap. The opposing tooth tends to move out of the jaw toward the missing tooth. Teeth get out of alignment and are exposed to decay or shock.

Children who lose baby teeth prematurely often need space-maintainers, temporary devices to keep the space open for permanent teeth to come into proper position. For adults, dental plates or bridges are the only remedy for lost teeth.

There's one last tip: The faulty closing of jaws or teeth sometimes is the cause of other troubles—neck pains, headaches, clicking in the temple joint and ringing in the ears.

Output Records Established by Hart Development

VICTORIA—The B. C. Power Commission's John Hart Development on Campbell River, Vancouver Island, has established two output records, and peak demand at the hydro plant has reached a new high.

During the month of August, the plant produced 36,440,000 kilowatt hours, highest since the development commenced operation in December, 1947. Also during August, a 24-hour output of 1,175,484 kwh and maximum demand of 83,000 horsepower established record figures.

The John Hart generating station serves more than 23,500 customers on Vancouver Island from Campbell River to Cobble Hill, including two pulp mills (at Cedar, near Nanaimo, and at Port Alberni), and the Duncan Bay newsprint mill. In addition, a considerable amount of the power consumed by some 42,000 electrical customers in Greater Victoria is generated at the upisland plant.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Finesse Isn't Always The Best Procedure

Mr. Muzzy considers himself an expert on the subject of finessing. Actually his only claim to fame in this field is that he finesses more than anyone else.

That isn't necessarily good. There are many hands where a finessing position is there, but where some other line of play offers a much better chance for the contract.

Mr. Muzzy muffed today's hand in his usual grand fashion. Mr. Dale won the first two tricks with the king and queen of diamonds. A third diamond was led and Mr. Muzzy ruffed.

After looking the situation over, he remarked, "it's all up to one thing, partner." He meant the position of the king of spades. And in this thought he was only 100 % wrong.

After taking three rounds of trumps, he led the deuce of spades and put up dummy's queen after Mr. Dale followed suit with the six spot. Mr. Masters won the king and then there was no possible way to avoid the loss of another spade trick for down one.

"You didn't give yourself every chance, Muzzy," said Mr. Abel.

"If you're asking me to go up with the ace of spades and lead back a little one, knowing the king would have to be played, I say that's double-dummy," replied Mr. Muzzy hotly. "Besides, nobody can tell me anything about finessing."

Mr. Abel had to smile. "What you say is literally true," he said. "Nobody can. But I was not asking you to go up with the ace of spades first. I was merely suggesting that you defer your finesse of the queen.

"Lead a small spade and put in the nine from dummy. If Dale started with both ten and jack, it will take the king to win it. Then your trobules would be over.

"If the nine lost to the jack or ten, you would be no worse off than before, because you had one sure spade loser in any case. You could still finesse the queen just as you did."

Mr. Abel was right. Don't take a finesse which will set you if it loses, until you have exhausted every other possibility.

Timely RECIPES

The Thanksgiving Bird

When it comes to the Thanksgiving bird here are some suggestions for preparing it.

Today large chickens are a splendid buy for the smaller family, and, while there are a few of the larger turkeys on the market, most of them are in the smaller class.

When preparing the chicken or turkey, first clean the bird thoroughly and wipe with clean cloth or wash in running water. Do not allow it to soak in water. If the bird is frozen, thaw completely before cooking. Rub the inside of the bird with salt, then fill loosely with a favorite dressing. Do not use one that is too highly seasoned. Allow one and one-quarter cups of dressing per pound (eviscerated weight) of meat, remembering that one slightly stale loaf of bread weighing one and one-half pounds will make about six cups of medium dry crumbs.

Close the openings and truss, then place the bird breast down on a rack or crossed skewers in an uncovered pan. It is not necessary to add water or fat, but a piece of cheesecloth dipped in melted fat may be placed on top of the bird during roasting, or the bird may be roasted in parchment or brown paper.

Roast chicken in a 325°F. oven, allowing two to two and one-half hours for a three to four pound eviscerated bird and three to four hours for a four and one half to six and one-half pound bird. Turkey should be roasted at a slightly lower temperature of 300°F., allowing about 20 to 25 minutes per pound.

To test for doneness, run a metal skewer or a long fork into the thick part of the breast or thigh. When it is done, the meat is tender and the juice does not show a reddish tinge. If a meat thermometer is used, it should read 190°F.
