ERECT ALTAR IN STADIUM

Eucharist to be Partaken of Outdoors and Special Masses at Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—A "spiritual bouquet" to Pope Pius XI. will be offered by thousands of Chicago and visiting Catholics receiving communion and praying for the pontiff's intention at the opening of the International Eucharistic Congress here June 20.

Since the congress is designed to celebrate and glorify the Eucharist, the Catholic sacrament of the real presence of Jesus Christ, under the appearance of bread, participation in communion will be stressed during the four-day sessions of the congress.

Open With Mass

Visitors will be assigned by groups to various churches of the city for attendance at special Masses on the opening day. But thereafter they will gather in the outdoor church into which Soldiers' Field, Chicago's municipal stadium, will be transformed. To enable participation by a large number without the congestion and delay that was experienced at the 1922 Eucharistic Congress in the Coliseum in Rome, a plan, similar to that used in the "sportsparks" in Amsterdam in 1924, will be employed.

Around the altar, on a slight rise to the north of the stadium, a quadrangle rail will be erected and around it the communicants will file, kneeling for a moment to receive the communion which will be distributed by a score of priests. Sixteen priests were employed for several hours in this distribution at the Amsterdam congress.

Indoor Meetings

No communions will be distributed, except in parish churches, at any of the indoor meetings, of which the principal ones will be held at the Chicago Coliseum, scene of several National political conventions. Only phases of the congress' general subject "The Holy Eucharist, the Christian Life" will be discussed here.

BIRD SANCTUARIES FOR DUCKS AND GEESE

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 25.—The migratory birds of Canada and the United States are likely to have several new refuges in the United States under a bill favorably reported in the United States senate committee on agriculture. The measure is intended to meet more effectively the obligations of the migratory bird treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

Under present conditions, it is asserted the supply of ducks, geese and other birds of the continent is being depleted due to lack of adequate refuges for them in view of the increasing drainage of land.

ELEVATOR IS NOW FINISHED

Officials and Workmen are Leaving Here After Having Spent Several Months in City

With the completion of the grain elevator here by the contractors, Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co., Ltd., various construction officials and representatives of sub-contractors, who have been in the city for the past several months have left or are about to leave. The big plant will be turned over by the contractors to the Department of Trade and Commerce in the course of the next few days on the return of W. N. Chater, supervising engineer for C. D. Howe & Co., the designers, who is expected back from Vancouver next week.

George Skuce, who has been superintendent for the Western Steel Products Co., Ltd., which concern had the contract for all the steel work and spouting in the structure, sailed this morning aboard the Prince Rupert for Vancouver accompanied by Mrs. Skuce.

Fred A. Porter, who has been superintendent of electrical work for the H. W. Monahan Co. of Edmonton, will sail for the south on the Princess Mary tonight.

Other officials and workmen are leaving on today's steamers.

A. Sinclair, who has been office superintendent for Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co. Ltd., and A. McDougall, who has been superintendent of works since the departure of D. M. Shearer, will remain in the city until the plant is turned over to the Department of Trade and Commerce.

OCEAN WINDS HAVE BROUGHT WARM WINTER

Washington Experts Say Volcanic Activity Nothing to do With Present Winter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.— The weather bureau takes no stock in suggestions that volcanic activity in the Alaskan territory have caused the recent high temperatures there.

Instead, the bureau declares a peculiar layout of atmospheric pressure has brought warm ocean winds to Alaska and has deflected down through Canada the cold waves that usually pass over the Alaskan-Siberian sector.

"That's all there is to it," say the experts. "Volcanoes may look and act fiery, but the most ferocious one in the world isn't warm enough to heat up even a small corner of a regular cold wave."

On one occasion the temperature in Eagle, Alaska, was higher than that at Jacksonville, Fla.

THOUGHT LAST HOUR HAD COME AS HE SAT IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.— The speed with which the wheels of justice move in Allegheny County was very much over-estimated by Peter Romanik, aged 40, of McKees Rocks, when he took a photographer's chair for the electric chair while being examined in county headquarters here.

Romanik, unable to speak English, was held in connection with the fatal stabbing of John Kirpa. He was escorted to the Bertillon room where his photo was to be taken. A brother accompanied him. Both became greatly excited when Romanik was placed in a chair. Romanik, in the belief that the photographer was about to execute him, held up his hand to stay the proceedings. He talked with his brother for a moment, handed him his purse and watch, and then shook hands in farewell.

Detectives finally convinced Romanik that he would survive the picture-taking ordeal.

ENTOMBED FROG IS FOUND IN A ROCK

Imagine one's surprise to crack open a rock and find a frog imbedded within! According to The Mentor, that is exactly what happened recently at Okanogan, Wash. At Syndey, New South Wales, a similar occurrence has caused considerable speculation in scientific circles. At the latter place the frog was found in rock ages old, while at Okanogan workmen, digging into the cemented gravel of a roadway, stumbled on a number of live frogs imprisoned there.

It is the belief of science that it is quite possible for a frog to live without food within a rock for a period of years. The creature from the amphibian set depends on his mysterious resources of hibernation, and lives on his own tissues. It is also thought that it is possible for a frog's egg to hatch in a crevice and the acid from the body of the frog powerful enough to eat a hole in the rock large enough to hold him for quite a while.

BROADCASTING SHAW PLAY IN ENGLAND

Twenty Year Old Extravaganza Being Put on the Air in Old Country

LONDON, Feb. 26.—A Bernard Shaw play has been broadcast with great success to the British listening-in public—not one of his long talky plays, but a bit of tomfoolery Shaw wrote for a theatrical garden party twenty years ago.

"Passion, Poison and Petrifaction" is the title of the extravaganza. When the heroine, Lady Magnesia, is asked by her maid, "Why do you not undress, get into bed and end all this hubbub?" She replies, in distressed tones: How can I, Phyllis, with all these people listening."

It is said to be the only Shaw play that has never been produced in America. Not even the Theatre Guild will risk its reputation on it.

ARE YOU WEARING The Right Shoe?

Up till a recent date, the shoe trade has been devoting its energies to the improvement of quality and style of shoes, never giving any consideration to the feet. But now, a new leaf has been turned and the manufacturers are going hand in hand with science. They now understand that

The Shoes are to Fit the Feet and not The Feet to Fit the Shoes

That is why you find that the demand for a scientifically made shoe such as the Arch-defender Shoe, is increasing every day, as well as scientific appliances for the relief of foot ailments, as Dr. Scholl's.

With that aim in view I decided to learn more about the feet and have concluded a special practipedic course that enables me to give you an absolute satisfaction in shoe fitting as well as relieving you of your foot ailments, if you have any.

Yours for Scientific Shoe Fitting
