Showers, parties fete popular city couple

Popular bride-elect Georgina Mitchell and her finance Ernest Novakowski have been the recipients of several showers and parties over the past week, as preludes to their marriage which takes place tomorrow night at First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. W. J. Scott was hostess at her home at 412 Fourth Avenue West for a kitchen shower for Miss Mitchell attended by a large number of friends. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage and given a group present of a cannister set and bread box.

Games winners were Mrs. Sidney Elkins and Mrs. W. F. Stone.

At a late afternoon party Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Elkins, 216 Fifth Avenue West, were hosts to Miss Mitchell and Mr. Novakowski. The bride-elect received a corsage and the couple was presented with a table lamp as a group gift.

The First Presbyterian church choir presented Miss Mitchell with an engraved silver tray at a buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith, 831 Summit Avenue.

At a King Edward Elementary school staff luncheon, principal R. G. Moore, presented Miss Mitchell with a crystal cream and sugar set and Miss Mitchell's Grade 4 class later gave her a Hummel figurine.

The First Presbyterian church choir, for whom Miss Mitchell plays the organ, presented her with a glass dish at the group's regular choir practice.

Tourist notes

By JOCELYN BOLTON

We have had an interesting letter from Los Angeles resident George G. Wurzburger who is coming to spend 10 days in Prince Rupert to photograph our area for television purposes.

We hope that this program will be more flattering than the CBC television one.

We have asked Mr. Wurzburger to let us know the exact date of his arrival so we can arrange to have him taken on a guided tour to some of our places of interest.

A well-known big game hunter, Mr. Wurzburger has travelled widely and one television program he did was called "Tourists and Totem Poles" which was screened on Jack Douglas' "Golden Voyage" program. Picture for it were taken around Vancouver, Victoria, Banff and Lake Louise.

Subjects Mr. Wurzburger wants to photograph up here are of trout fishing, Indian material, salmon and halibut fishing and game animals.

If anyone has any suggestions I can relay to Mr. Wurzburger, they can phone me at 5637 so that I can make notes for him.

STORY FROM LIFE. A lady in Vancouver writes in praise of TEMPLETON'S TRC's. She says, "I had sharp sciatic pain that kept me in misery. Walking was painful, I could scarcely lift my left leg, and had great difficulty in getting upstairs." Then, lucky lady, she discovered Templeton's TRC's and found help right away. She reports, "I had better and better relief from my pain as I continued to take TRC's, until I was able to discontinue them." Like so many others, she is eager to recommend TRC's to anyone who suffers from rheumatic, arthritic or sciatic pain. Will you heed her?

STUDENTS DISPLAY HIGH PROFICIENCY

Continue education for success, editor tells Terrace graduates

Canada needs more bright young men and women and fewer mediocre ones, Daily News editor J. R. Ayres told the 29 members of a Terrace graduating class Thursday night.

Speaking to Grade 12 students of Skeena Junior-Senior High school, he said there is plenty of room in the work-a-day world for those with plenty of training—while many who quit school early are jobless.

"The young men and women of today should look to the newspaper advertisements for a key to the future," Mr. Ayres said.

"There they will see that the big firms, large corporations, big organizations want young men and women with degrees, they want trained personnel with academic background, skilled craftsmen, trained nurses, qualified teachers and specialists of all types. . . .

"There are only so many jobs to go around for the labourer, for the boy and girl who starts at any job available and hopes there might be promotion.

"There are only so many vacancies for those with limited education, who can't spell correctly, can't add, can't go out and speak properly for their company."

Mr. Ayres urged the graduates to make every effort to continue through university, adding that those who do not feel qualified for university should attend vocational school.

"Make every effort to further your education. Work in the summer to make money, no matter what the job is, if it pays off. Don't let false pride stand in the way of earning good money, if it means another year at college," he said.

Earlier at a banquet in the Skeena High school auditorium teacher W. L. Arnason told the graduates to appreciate all the information they could assimilate and to never stop learning.

He warned them that success was measured in more than money and they should earn respect, learn the art of being kind to others and to appreciate the joy of giving.

Mrs. Eugene LaBelle, principal of Kalum Elementary school urged the graduates to build a good character as a foundation for their lives. She encouraged them to acquire respect, humility, tolerance and pride of workmanship.

Receiving their diplomas from Terrace school board representative Mrs. W. L. O'Boyle were Alfred Atrill, Lary Cross, Robert Heinsch, Peter Hinchliffe, Blake Lyons, Robert Melvin, Robert Miller, Brian Mould, Dale Nunn, Murray Reuhlen, Gerry Sharples, Ernest Strasden, Joseph Vanderkwaak, David Mould, Mary Amdam, Kay Boyd, Louise Chemko, Arlene Craig, Louise Gair, Muriel Grenfell, Barbara Hagen, Doreen Jackson, Jennie Langerak, Sheila McColl, Anita Sawicki, Jeon Stewart, Elaine Thomas, Greta Varner, Elaine Waldbauer.

Giving the valedictory address for the class of 1959 was Murray Reuhlen.

Highlight of the graduation ceremonies was the presentation of the Rotary Citizenship shield to Joseph Vanderkwaak, by president of the Terrace Rotary club John Cook.

Other presentations were an award to the top student in the graduation class to Arlene Craig (runner-up Joseph Vanderkwaak); top Grade 9 student Elsie May Mutschke (runner-up Ruth Telford); proficiency cups to Joan Skoglund and Joseph Vanderkwaak in Grades 10 to 12; to Elsie May Mutschle and David Skoglund in Grades 7 to 9.

Honor diplomas were given to 32 students throughout the school who received no mark in any subject less than "B," or 73 per cent average for the year.

Mrs. Watson Bailey of the Rebecca Lodge, presented the joint Odd Fellows Lodge and Rebecca scholarship to Robert Miller.

R. D. Magwood, principal of Skeena High school, lauded Elaine Waldbauer, for being the only graduate in the accredited high school's recommended graduation class to elect to write her government exams in the hope she would receive a scholarship.

R. C. Telford, manager of Columbia Cellulose Company Ltd.'s woods division congratulated winners of the company's essay contest in connection with B.C. Forest Products Safety Week.

Toastmaster for the graduation banquet was Blake Lyons; grace was given by Archdeacon C. A. Hinchliffe who also gave the invocation at the graduation ceremonies; toast to the Queen was given by Brian Mould; toast to parents by Kay Boyd; reply to A. J. McColl; toast to the graduates by Leslie McKerracher; reply by Larry Cross; presentations by Elaine Waldbauer; class prophecy by Blake Lyons; last wills and testaments by Dale Nunn.

Entertainment was provided by a dance by Eva Galambos; violin selections by Judy Adman and Sonja Fenger; pianos duet by Caroline Sel Slessinger and George Black, and a trumpet solo by Larry Cross.

A dance followed the graduation ceremony.
