HEATING CONTRACTS

Editor, Daily News:

Could you tell me why the highest bidder was accepted for installing oil burners in the Booth School? I think some explanation is due the ratepayers on this matter other than the bare note that this firm had a better burner than the others.

WEATHER REPORT.

Prince Rupert.—Foggy, calm, temp. 54.

Union Oil Co.'s motorship tanker Olinda arrived in port shortly before noon today with a supply of fuel for the company's local tanks.

Fred Mathers, general manager of the Somerville Cannery Co., arrived on the Cardena this morning from Barnard Cove and will spend a few days here inspecting operations at the company's local plants which he states will be operated to the usual end of the season this year.

A man named H. Anderson was seized with an epileptic fit at the corner of Third Avenue and Seventh Street about 10:30 this morning. The police were summoned and Sergeant J. P. M. Hannah and Constable R. McKinley, arriving at the scene, called the ambulance and sent the ill man to the hospital.

Mrs. Fred Shepherd and daughter, Miss Dorothy Shepherd, the latter of whom is on the staff of the provincial library, arrived on the Cardena this morning from Victoria and will spend a week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Glassey, 621 Fifth Avenue West. Mrs. Shepherd is a cousin of Mr. Glassey.

Speaking of these short skirts—it's not the initial length, it's the up-creep. —Judge.

NEW GOLF CLUB WILL BE BUILT

Will Take Place of one Destroyed by Fire Early in Week

VICTORIA, Aug. 19.—While the embers of the disastrous fire which destroyed the new clubhouse of the Victoria Golf Club still smoldered, plans were institued for the immediate reconstruction of the building on the site of the gutted structure.

The loss is estimated at $20,000, and it was stated by E. Williams, of the construction firm, that the building was fully covered by insurance. The contract figure for the building was $28,000 and the clubhouse was almost completed when fire demolished the work of the builders. The building was so far advanced that the club had expected to occupy it next month.

Apart from the complete destruction of the clubhouse, together with the old structure that had been used as temporary quarters, the loss by fire and water of personal property of club members was very extensive. Practically every member of the club figures in the loss of golfing equipment, the full extent of which has not yet been estimated.

Phil Taylor, professional at the course, alone lost approximately $2,500 in golfing stock, in both finished and unfinished clubs. This stock was not insured.
