WEATHER WAS NOT SO GOOD DURING 1926

YEAR WAS COOLER, RAINIER AND CLOUDIER THAN 1925—ONLY IMPROVEMENT WAS LESS SNOW

Looking back over the weather during 1926 one finds that the year was a cooler one with more rain and less sunshine in 1925. The only point in which 1926 proved a better year from a pleasant weather standpoint was in the fact that there was less snow whereas there was more rain to make up for that. The year 1926 was better in most ways, however, than was 1924.

Rainfall during 1926 may be said to have been about average in amount. A total of 94.03 inches of rain fell as compared with 87.6 inches in 1925 and 103.16 inches in 1924. Snowfall during 1926 totalled 13 inches, all of which came in December, as compared with 34.9 inches in 1925. October was the rainiest month in 1926 and December was a close second, the total for the two months having been 12.86 and 12.39 inches respectively.

During 1926 there were 740.3 hours of bright sunshine as compared with about 1000 hours in 1925. The finest month, as usual, was September when there was only 1.09 inch of rain and 170 hours of sunshine.

The warmest day of 1926 was August 25 when the thermometer went up to 82. The warmest day in 1925 was June 25 when 88 degrees was registered. The coldest days in 1926 were December 13 and 16 when the mercury registered 18 above. The coldest day in 1925 was January 31 when 19 above was registered.

Following are weather figures for 1926, month by month:

	Temperature Max.	Min.	Rain Inches	Snow Inches	Sun Hours
January	54	29	10.81		16.5
February	53	23	9.97		44.1
March	68	30	7.44		53.
April	64	30	8.50		65.
May	73	36	6.74		84.2
June	79	38	6.95		130.
July	73	42	4.89		95.4
August	82	42	5.93		119.
September	76	32	1.09		170.
October	62	31	12.86		103.8
November	58	32	6.46		79.7
December	51	18	12.39	13	39.7
			94.03	13	740.3

The weather report for December is announced as follows by H. D. Tee of Digby Island, Dominion meteorologist:

PALMISTRY HAS BEEN MADE RIDICULOUS; REASONABLE STUDY

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—That up to the present "palmistry" had been exploited by fortune tellers and charlatans to forecast the future in a ridiculous fashion was regretted by Madame Jeanne Gobat lecturing in Westmount High School. The lines are not there by chance, she claimed, but are formed before birth, at the same time as the features of the face. In the right hand of the mature person can be seen what has been done with the dispositions given at birth, and the so-called "expressive" hand is possesed by a person very receptive to impressions.

The reading of the hand is not divination but a reasonable study, said Madame Gobalt, who expressed herself as anxious to popularize a method that could be of use to everybody. "One who has a little understanding of the human soul and a knowledge of palmistry can do much good. Especially can children be more correctly understood and trained if their teachers or parents have the added insight into their characters afforded by palmistry," said the lecturer, who advised all teachers to study their pupils' hands in a scientific manner.

There was no session of the County court today owing to the absence from the city of His Honor, Judge F. McB. Young. On the judge's return, there will be court on January 24 when the Beale appeal and some civil cases will be taken up.
