SPENT HOLIDAY IN ALBERTA AND N.W.T. AN ENJOYABLE TIME

Miss Cruickshank, local librarian, who is back at her duties, reports having had a wonderful holiday in northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories. She spent a week in Edmonton and the farthest point visited was Fort Smith, the place from which steamers leave for the Arctic Ocean by way of the Mackenzie River. Part of her trip was made by rail and part by steamer.

One of the drawbacks to that beautiful country, Miss Cruikshank says, is the number of huge mosquitoes, vicious and voracious creatures, that make life unbearable during part of the summer. By the time she got there the evenings were getting cool and the pests were disappearing.
