TOTLISATOR HAS NARROW MARGIN IN BRITISH COMMONS

Mutuel System of Betting on Races Provides Rakeoff for Charitable Funds

LONDON, April 18.—The Racecourse Betting Bill, which passed its second reading in the House of Commons had a narrow escape. Receiving a majority of fifteen for the second reading it was saved from being "killed" by a later motion by two votes only.

The totalisator pools the bets on a race, and apportions the winnings in proportion to the stakes risked by the winner. It will also retain a percentage of the "bank" to cover the betting-tax and a contribution to the racecourse stakes and other costs, and its use involves a power on the part of the racing authorities to license bookmakers for admission to the courses.

It is proposed that the funds derived from the deducted percentage of the betting pool and from the licences given to bookmakers shall be administered by a central authority appointed by the Jockey Club and the National Hunt Committee, and shall be used for increasing the stakes and improving racecourse amenities and ultimately for charitable purposes.

Dempsey is considering an offer from David Belasco to take a fighting part in a play to be staged in New York. The difficulty is that Dempsey is used to drawing down the cash in such big bunches that it is difficult for a mere theatre promoter to meet his demands.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY YOUNGSTERS

RETAIL MERCHANTS HAVE INTERESTING DIVERSION AT REGULAR MONTHLY DINNER

The Retail Merchants' Association, at its regular months dinner in the Commodore Cafe last evening, enjoyed an interesting diversion in the form of a musical entertainment by six children. The program included a vocal solo by Miss Betty Cameron, recitation by Adelia Thurber, piano solo by Connie Morgan, recitation by Jack McRae and instrumental duet by Jimmy and Wizner Bryant. All numbers were excellently performed and well received.

D. C. McRae, president of the association, occupied the chair. Business at the meeting was otherwise of a routine nature.

BASEBALL LOTTERY SCHEME WAS CRUSHED LOS ANGELES POLICE

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—A baseball lottery scheme was crushed here when officers of the vice squad arrested George Morris and confiscated 50,000 baseball lottery tickets and a mailing list.

On information furnished by the list the vice squad is rounding up approximately 60 agents who have been distributing the tickets. The police said that 20,000 tickets already had been distributed at a dollar each. A weekly capital prize of $2,000 was offered and daily prizes were said to run as high as $1,000, with none less than $100.

Morris was booked on a charge of conducting a lottery and his agents will be charged with the possession of lottery tickets.

WARD HELPERS IN TORONTO HOSPITALS

TORONTO, April 17.—A new occupation for women has opened in this city with the employment by the Toronto General Hospital of a number of girls as ward helpers. The work is not a substitution for part of the work which the men as orderlies carry on but is rather a cross between the minor tasks which have taken the time of the professionally-trained nurse or have been found a little difficult for the ward maids.

FIRE FIGHTER IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 17.—George Alexander Wallace, Cleveland fire chief, is called the world's oldest active fire fighter. He is 80.

The white-haired veteran runs the fire department of this city of a million with admitted efficiency, and to be nearer the smell of smoke he makes his office most of the time in an engine house rather than in the mahogany-outfitted office in the municipal building.

Wallace is on the ground at all fires of any consequence. He joined the Cleveland fire department 59 years ago.
