Thomas Tells Reason For Visit to Canada in Winnipeg Address

Is Endeavoring To Stimulate Demand For British Goods in Dominion, Not to Dump Settlers

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4.—Explaining that he had come to Canada primarily to execute his duties as minister of employment in Great Britain and make an effort to stimuate demand for British goods in Canada, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas told the Canadian Club at a luncheon in his honor here yesterday that he had received the sympathy of all those he had interviewed. He had found the federal government sympathetic and ready to aid. He also hinted that the railway systems were ready to give more of their business to Great Britain.

Mr. Thomas emphasized that he had no intention of trying to solve the British unemployment problem by dumping a large number of people in Canada. He was satisfied that unemployment and migration should be treated as separate problems. He merely asked that Canadians give Great Britain a fair share of their business.

"I find," said Mr. Thomas, "that you spend one pound with us for every four pounds you spend in the United States. You import sixteen million tons of coal and I am going to get some of this business. I am not, however, going to ask for a dollars worth of business where you can make an article yourselves. It is not my aim to solve my unemployment problem by creating one for you."

Great Britain Should Have New Shake in Matter of War Debts, Churchill States In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4 — Speaking here at a public meeting under the auspices of the National Council of Education, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill declared that The Hague agreement on the Young plan impaired the principle of the Balfour note and that the time had come for the restatement of British position on war debts in terms more favorable to Great Britain. "We can no longer say that we are obtaining as much from Europe, including arrears, as the United States is receiving from us," he declared. He referred especially to the repudiated Russian debt of 600,000,000 pounds sterling, which, he said, France and Italy should be asked to agree, was outside the self denying limitation of the Balfour note. He said this debt was not impossible of collection if Russia redeemed the garb of civilization.

Coupled with his statement on war debts, the former chancellor of the exchequer warned the present British government that an outbreak in Palestine was "only a bloody forecast" of what would happen in Egypt and India if the protecting and guiding hand of Great Britain was withdrawn. He had no doubt but that the dismissal of Lord Lloyd and the proposal of the Labor Government to clear the British garrison out at Cairo and Alexendria had been taken as a sign of weakness by the Arabs in Palestine.

A very satisfactory conclusion had been reached by The Hague conference, Mr. Churchill thought. No British government could have accepted the Young plan as it stood, and he believed that Philip Snowden was right in his stubborn resistance and in his final concession.
