Blackwood on Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Every one of Mr. Muzzy's bids on today's hand richly deserves an exclamation point. This is an interesting, if bewildering, example of the Muzzy system in action.

After Mr. Champion's two-club overcall, Mr. Muzzy made the amazing decision to pass his fine hand. Mr. Abel also passed and Miss Brash went into a huddle.

She was very close to a minimum bid and she almost let the two-club bid stand. Her natural optimism prevailed, however, and she gave it one more try, doubling for a takeout.

Mr. Champion was quite disappointed. He had hoped to buy the contract himself. Now, he crossed his fingers and hoped his opponents wouldn't land in a game bid. (They didn't.)

Mr. Muzzy's bid on the second round was a bombshell. "Four no trump," he called. He couldn't bid over two clubs and yet here he was trying for a slam.

Miss Brash showed her one ace and then Mr. Muzzy called five no trump. Now he was apparently trying for a grand slam!

The bidding:

5 D	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 H	Pass	6 S	All pass

Learning that his partner had two kings, he "conservatively" put the hand into six spades, a suit not previously mentioned during the bidding.

Mr. Abel opened the seven of clubs and Mr. Muzzy won with the ace. He ruffed a club in dummy then laid down dummy's ace, king, queen of hearts, discarding the five of diamonds on the third heart.

When the fourth heart was led from the board Mr. Champion ruffed with the eight of spades.

But Mr. Muzzy overruffed with the nine and trumped his last club with dummy's 10 of spades. Next he led dummy's last trump and cashed his ace and king. As you see, this dropped Mr. Abel's queen.

Mr. Muzzy spread the rest of the hand, conceding a diamond trick and making his slam.

Mr. Champion was practically out of his mind. He pointed out all the lucky breaks Mr. Muzzy got.

"What kind of crazy stuff is this?" Mr. Champion demanded. "You can't come in over my two-club bid and the next minute you turn up in a spade slam."

"It says in the books," replied Mr. Muzzy primly, "that when my partner opens the bidding first or second hand, she is obligated to bid again."

"Oh, NO," Mr. Champion wailed. "That's when the partner of the opening bidder responds—and then only."

"I play it that way when ANYBODY responds," Mr. Muzzy insisted. "And kindly put down my score while you're still able to hold that pencil."

Many assorted records may be ploughed under by the busy bats and chance-taking running of the Brooklyn Dodgers before they clinch this pennant, but they've already set a spectacular mark with their team spirit. "It's something that doesn't show in the box scores or record books," says Charley Dressen. "But it has made this a great team. I coach at third base, and I can ear our bench from there, rooting, spurring, encouraging. Sometimes the umpires don't like it, but so what? I love noise and spirit." Dressen sees this great spirit—this one-for-all and all-for-one feeling—is a cinch to crack American League domination of the Dodgers which has carried through the World Series of 1916, 1920, 1941, 1947 and 1949.

On this Dodger club you can hear the bench reminding Duke Snider, when he's up at the plate, to lay off that bad ball. You can hear them encouraging Peewee to get on with that walk, rooting for Robinson to "hit one between 'em." And these fellows, when they are not at the plate, are just as loud rooting for Furillo, Pafko and Hodges. Cheer-leader on the Dodger bench is Harry Cookie Lavagetto, who never knew how to say die himself in that 1947 World Series game when Bill Bevens of the Yanks had the Dodgers shut out with no hits for 8 2/3 innings. This 1951 bench may be behind so many 8th and 9th inning Dodger victories.

Sharpest bench jockey is Dick Williams, and Wayne Terwilliger was a great addition in mid-season. Ralph Branca and Don Newcombe when they aren't pitching and Rocky Bridges are other great competitors who are never quiet. "There's still a lot of work to be done," said Dressen as he and his team plunged into their last home stand against the West. "But I know
