of national and empire thought, knowledge, duty and obligation. He pointed out that the effectiveness of the work of the Navy League is dependent on the degree of co-operation obtaining throughout the Dominion.

"Ships are necessary in order to continue the high standard of living and to make industrial employment possible for these things depend a great deal on export by ships. Canada's trade routes are her main arteries along which pass an endless stream of exports and imports which mean the difference between affluence and penury to our primary producers.

League's Motto

"The League's motto is 'Canadian products, carried by Canadian ships, manned by Canadian seamen.' This cannot be done without some opportunity being offered our lads to learn seamanship and, to attain this end, Sea Cadet Corps have been established from coast to coast and the League has fully qualified instructors who provide the Cadets with a sufficient knowledge of seamanship to have them accepted as able-seamen on board ocean-going vessels. Year after year, the League has passed into our lake and ocean marine boys who have won credit for themselves through their efficiency in the various branches of seamanship which has been taught to them in these corps.

"To illustrate—over 700 lads have been apprenticed to the various shipping companies. This apprenticeship is for a period of four years at the expiration of which lads are ready to pass their examination for officers in the mercantile marine. These articles of apprenticeship cannot be broken save with the consent of the shipping company, the boys' guardians and the Navy League of Canada. The boys are supplied with a full outfit and are kept separate when at sea. They live aft. Cost per boy's outfit is $150. Their pay is $100 the first year, $200 the second, $300 the third and $500 the fourth.

"We have," continued Mr. Harris, "23 Sea Cadet Corps, stretching from Halifax on the Atlantic to Prince Rupert on the Pacific, and we have passed into the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve over two thousand cadets. In addition, for specially selected Cadets and promising boys, we have sent to H. M. S. Conway' stationed off Liverpool on the River Mersey, 33 Canadian lads (some of these being from Calgary, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria). The Conway is, perhaps, the finest training ship in the British Empire. After two years service aboard her, these cadets pass into the leading shipping companies of the Empire. The course costs, with outfit, about $800 per annum. Many of our Sea Cadets are now officers in the merchant marine, thus the Navy League of Canada has opened up a new vocation for Canadian boys."

The annual tag day for the local Sea Cadet Corps will take place on Saturday next.

Had a Complete Breakdown; Then Started Sargon

"I had a complete nervous breakdown that left me deplorably rundown. My stomach particularly gave me trouble, and many nights I would hardly close my eyes on account of indigestion. It's remarkable how Sargon restored my health and strength. I sleep soundly all night and am filled with energy all day. Sargon Soft Mass Pills regulated my bowels perfectly. I feel just as fine as can be."—Mrs. E. A. Murphy, St. John, 113 St. David St.
