RUSH OF BRITISH SETTLERS TO CANADA

We have seen before," an emigration agent said when questioned. "Though people have been going to Canada for years, it is only now that the country is really becoming known, and consequently it is only now that the possibilities of the country's resources are being understood. It is true that a small percentage of the intending settlers come back, but their number does not affect the general total, as it is so small, and besides these are the people who go out expecting to find everything cut and dried for them.

"Scotland is sending out over a thousand emigrants weekly during the season, and there are a large number of Irishmen, especially farm hands, who have come to see that Canada is the land of promise. There is no doubt, however, that the emigration to Canada has been cut into by the Australian emigration trade, but in spite of that the numbers going west are in excess of any previous season."

HOBBLE SKIRT ON RETURN JOURNEY

Tighter Than Ever, Says a London Fashion Expert.

London, March 13.—According to a London fashion expert who has just returned from Paris, the dressmakers of that city are proposing not merely to revive the hobble skirt but to make it tighter than ever, so that women will be almost unable to walk in it. This London expert says:

"The skirts I saw in Paris were so tight around the legs that the wearers could scarcely walk. The dresses are frightfully ugly. In some cases they are draped up some inches in front or on the side to allow the feet some little movement, and are arranged with folds of the material in drapings around the thigh and tapering to the ankles.

"The draped hobble is more insidious than the plain hobble skirt. It has deceived everybody because the fashion prophesied led the women to believe that the hobble skirt was dead, that folds and drapery were coming in and, therefore that the skirts were bound to be fuller and that more material would be used. The extra material, however, is used in draping the bodice and around the hips, and leaves but a wispleness of skirt around the ankles.

"In very many cases, skirts are so narrow, even in tailor made costumes, that they must be split in directoire fashion up to the knee or even above, either at the side or in front. In many cases, buttons and buttonholes allow the wearer to determine how long the slit shall be."

Almost all the new Parisian skirts are slit—they must be, said another Londoner back from the French capital.

PARASITE TO FIGHT MEDITERRANEAN FLY

Founded by Dr. Silvester in the Jungles of West Africa.

Honolulu, March 13.—Dr. Silvester, an entomologist sent by the Hawaiian territorial board of agriculture to make a search in different parts of the world for a parasite to destroy the fruit pest known as the Mediterranean fly, cabled yesterday from Capetown, South Africa, that he had found it in the West African jungles and that he would return with a supply at once, via Australia.

For years the Mediterranean fly has been a curse to the fruit industry of Hawaii. All shipments of fresh fruits to American ports are prohibited by strict quarantine laws for fear the pest will be communicated to the mainland. The search for an effective parasite has been going on for years.

DAWSON POSTMASTER WENT SOUTH TODAY

Has Been in Charge Since the Palmy Days of '98—Could Tell Many Interesting Experiences.

There passed through the city this morning on his way south from Dawson one of the most interesting personalities that ever struck the north. This was no other than Mr. I. J. Hartman, who has been postmaster of the famous northern metropolis since the very birth of the golden city. Mr. Hartman, who took charge of the post office in Dawson in the spring of '98, could fill a volume were he to recount his experiences in handling the mail business since the early days of the inception of the camp down to the prosaic times that have finally arrived in the Arctic metropolis. For the last ten years Dawson has differed very slightly from any other Western Canadian city in respect to novel or bizarre attributes. During the first five years of its existence, however, it was probably one of the most remarkable places on the face of the globe. Filled with an eager cosmopolitan population drawn from every quarter of the earth, it can be easily understood what a huge volume of mail would get started on its way to that point, much of which would never arrive and much that did never getting into the hands of the parties it was intended for, was no unusual thing away back in the days of '98 for a queue of men to stand in line for two whole days waiting for a chance to ask for their mail.

Mr. Hartman, who was an appointee under the late Liberal administration, has been superseded in the position of postmaster in Dawson by an active and ardent supporter of the present Conservative party.

Better than Ringing Door-bells

A PIANO manufacturer recently made a house-to-house canvass. He's one of those men with an absurd fear of the "waste-circulation" bugaboo—cannot get away from the haunting thought that only 10 out of every 100 readers of a newspaper may be possible buyers of his goods.

So he refused to advertise, and went a-canvassing—inviting people to come to his piano recitals. Then he wondered why they didn't come.

This is why:

He wasn't reaching the people.

His canvassers rang every door-bell in town. They talked to some one in every house.

But one in every household isn't enough—particularly if it doesn't happen to be the right person. And, as a rule, it wasn't the right person—it was a servant, or a child. The woman of the house was seldom seen; the man of the house, never.

Now, if the piano maker had placed an ad. in the newspaper, it would have reached thousands, where the canvassers could reach only hundreds.

And even though only 10 per cent. of the readers are actual piano buyers, this does not mean that the advertising read by the other 90 per cent. is wasted. Advertising talks, not only to the prospective buyer, but also to his wife, his grown-up sons and daughters, his mother—even his mother-in-law. Their coaxing will help to convince the head of the house—and pretty soon there'll be a piano in that home.

This and dozens of similar cases which might be cited to show that "waste circulation" is an empty bugaboo, and should deter no one.

Take the motor truck. It can be sold only to large firms. Yet a motor truck manufacturer is successfully advertising in daily papers. He realizes that he must reach, not alone the managers of the concerns that require trucks, but also their directors, their foremen, their head machinists, etc. It is found in actual practice that this Advertising radiates in a thousand directions, and again converges most astonishingly to influence the house that has made up its mind that horse-trucking is too costly and inefficient.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Bldg., Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.
