Further Word of United States Air And Naval Squadron—Investigated Massett Salmon—American Landings Picking Up.

United States Consul G. C. Woodward has received advice that an aircraft squadron consisting of five Loening amphibians and one Douglas amphibian, accompanied by five mine sweepers Gannett, Kingfisher, Quail, Swallow and Tanager, one mine layer Oglala and one auxiliary vessel Sirius, may call here, if servicing is necessary, within the next few days enroute from San Diego to the Aleutian Islands to spend the summer engaged in survey work. The Oglala, which is a vessel of 4200 tons displacement and 375 feet length, carries seventeen officers and 295 men. The Sirius, 5,581 tons displacement and 390 feet long, has thirteen officers and 102 men. Each of the other five surface vessels is 174 feet long with displacement of 840 tons and has five officers and fifty-seven men. According to the word received here, the squadron of air and surface craft may call here or at Alert Bay or at both ports. There is no definite word yet of them being in local waters.

Dr. A. L. Pritchard of the staff of the Biological Station at Departure Bay near Nanaimo arrived in the city on the Prince John Tuesday night after having spent the past few weeks in Massett Inlet in connection with investigations pertaining to the pink salmon run there and will sail tonight by the Prince George on his return to Vancouver Island.

American landings, after having been rather lighter than usual since the opening of the present season, are now beginning to once more form their normal heavy proportion of business of this port. Yesterday, for instance, seven American vessels landed a total of 116,000 pounds here while there were only two Canadian boats in with 15,700 pounds. The price for American fish was from 7c and 5c to 8.1c and 6c and for Canadian, 5.6c and 4.5c and 6.1c and 4.5c. The prices are continuing to hold up very well.

With a light list of but seventeen passengers on board, the movement of traffic at this season of the year being always in the northward rather than southward direction, C. P. R. steamer Princess Norah, Capt. William Palmer, arrived in port at 4:30 yesterday afternoon from Skagway and other Alaska points and sailed an hour later for Alert Bay and Vancouver. Four passengers disembarked from the vessel here while five boarded her at this port for the south.

Although not officially announced it is stated that definite arrangements have been made for the Cook Tours to take over the steamer Prince Robert under charter for the summer months for excursions between Vancouver and Los Angeles and calling at at least one Mexican port.

MINING IN UNUK AREA

Three Parties Arranged to Visit Valley This Summer and Possibly Several More

During the past two years a prospecting syndicate headed by Thomas Mackay of Premier has been operating in the Unuk River region and has had men working there. This year airplanes will be taking in a diamond drill for the use of the syndicate just as soon as the lake on which they land is open for use of the machines.

In addition to the Mackay syndicate two other parties are planning to go into the same region by plane during the coming summer and there is a possibility of eastern parties also making a visit to the neighborhood on prospecting intent.

The territory of Alaska is being asked to construct a trail through its territory to facilitate entrance to the valley from that side, the results already obtained in the country indicating that valuable mineral deposits are there which are likely to develop into real mines.
