VANCOUVER, June 8: (CP)—Picketing Vancouver longshoremen made no move today to prevent the unloading of fruit from the freighter Pacific Pioneer at Ballantyne Pier by gangs from the newly formed Canadian Waterfront Workers' Association under protection of the police. Some nine hundred strikers, however, continued to picket the docks and twelve other deepsea ships lay idle. Four men were beaten up by alleged pickets yesterday after they left the docks.

Seattle longshoremen have voted one hundred percent to support the strikers and will refuse to handle cargo to or from Vancouver.

Take Second Place in American League But Two Games Behind New York Yankees

CHICAGO, June 8: (CP)—The three-way tie for second place in the American League was broken up yesterday when Chicago White Sox won a tight decision over the Detroit Tigers in a free-hitting game here. The White Sox now have the runner-up position two games behind the New York Yankees, who were losing a close game to the Red Sox at Boston, and a half game ahead of the Cleveland Indians whose game with the St. Louis Browns at Cleveland was postponed. The Detroit Tigers are in fourth place one game below the second place White Sox.

In the National League second place also changed hands again, the St. Louis Cardinals becoming runner-up again, although their game with the Chicago Cubs at Sportsman's Field was postponed on account of rain, as a result of the Pittsburg Pirates being ignominiously routed by the Cincinnati Reds at Pittsburg. The New York Giants scored the odd run at the Polo Grounds over the cellar-dwelling Boston Braves and increased their margin of supremacy to five and a half games.

Yesterday's Big League scores:

Delegates to Provincial Synod—Clerical, Rev. C. A. Hinchliffe, Burns Lake; Rev. Canon T. D. Proctor, Pouce Coupe; Rev. William Sweetnam, Endako; Ven. Archdeacon E. Hodson, Ocean Falls; lay, Judge W. E. Fisher, H. T. Cross and R. L. McIntosh, Prince Rupert, and Peter Haldane, Metlakatla.

Thursday's proceedings opened with a celebration of Holy Communion. During the day further reports were received from various departments of the church's work.

A resolution was passed to be presented to the provincial Synod on the necessity for unanimity among the Protestant bodies on the question of religious education.

A keen discussion resulted in the Clergy Pension Fund being placed on a sound business basis.

Members of the Cathedral Woman's Auxiliary again entertained the delegates to lunch. Speeches of appreciation were made to which Mrs. C. V. Evitt replied in a short and witty speech.

The great need for carrying on and developing the work among the Japanese was stressed and arrangements were made to endeavor to bring this about.

The work among the natives then occupied the remainder of the session. Plans were advanced to bring home to the natives the important part they play and can play in the work of the church.

During the afternoon Mrs. Rix entertained the delegates to afternoon tea at the Bishop's residence.

Evening Service

In the evening a well attended service was held in the Cathedral, Rev. F. H. Wilkinson of Vancouver being the preacher. He dwelt on the problems and opportunities facing the church today. A very interesting feature at this service was the leading part taken by the native delegates. It was quite a revelation to the white people present to see the reverent and efficient manner in which they rendered their parts of the service. The following natives assisted: James E. Stewart (Kincolith), organist, Paul Mercier (Aiyansh), Solomon Brown (Kitkatla), Peter Haldane (Metlakatla) and James Ryan (Kitwanga). The last named ofefred prayers in his native tongue.

Prince Rupert Chamber Of Commerce Opposes Bureaus In Canada's Industrial Life

Would Rid the Country of Sweat Shops and Other Abuses And Legislate Against Secret Rebates But Hands Off Other Interference

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, at its meeting last night, went on record as being opposed to bureaucratic interference in private business by governments. While being opposed to sweat shop wages and other abuses, the board urges that laxity in enforcing laws is responsible for the condition disclosed in the recent investigations at Ottawa. The question came up in response to a request for an opinion by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in which the main recommendations of the price spreads committee were outlined. These recommend state regulation of business, state determination of trade, state probing and prosecution, state regulation of marketing, and a number of other state activities. Accompanying this would be the establishment of seven state boards.

The whole question was referred to a committee of the chamber, the report of which was adopted last night. The report recommended:

1. That the government be requested to enact and enforce legislation necessary to make it compulsory for manufacturers and packers in the textile and food trades to abolish advertising allowances and secret rebates.

2. That while the price spreads inquiry disclosed serious abuse such as sweat shop wages and short weighing customers, both of these are at present within the scope of government authority and no further extension of government power is necessary to prevent their recurrence. On the contrary, both the federal and provincial government departments should be investigated to find why laxity had been shown in enforcing present laws.

3. That any further state regulation or control of industrial endeavor in unnecessary and likely to still further retard recovery. Business today is already choked with government red tape, pink forms and inefficiency.

Canada's prosperity today is dependent upon export trade. To compete in world markets with a bureaucratic knot tying up internal operations will place her under a handicap so that it would be unable to compete with foreign competitors. World trade is already encumbered with enough restrictions by tariffs, quotas and exchange control without being further fettered with inefficient government hindrances.

4. The proposed legislation is practically duplicating the National Recovery Act of the United States. This act is said to be the cause of the present social unrest in that country and is likely to be abrogated. Why copy something which has been tried and found wanting?

5. Many causes have been given for the present distress, but one point is sure, taxation is doing as much to prolong it as any other factor. Taxation at present takes one-third of our national income. What contribution does this one-third make to industrial life? One and a half millions of our present population are on the government payroll. Extend this much further and half the people will be working hard to support the other half on the government payroll.

The best contribution our government can give to assist in restoring work to our unemployed is by way of tax reduction. Over eighty percent of the adult population are taxpayers, either directly or indirectly, and every dollar saved the taxpayer and circulating through the efficient veins of industrial life will do ten times the amount of good of a dollar circulating through the inefficiency of government agencies.
