Twenty-Six Canneries to Operate This Year in District—Denali Salvage Base at Dundas Island—Halibut Landings Getting Heavier

Twenty-six salmon canneries, four less than last year, will operate in Prince Rupert district this season, a preliminary survey indicates. The canning season will get under way on July 1 which date has been set for the opening of fishing with sockeye gillnets, the date being ten days later than in previous years. The Naas, with three; the Skeena, with nine; the central division, with three, and the Bella Coola area, with two, will have the same number of canneries in operation this year as last. In Rivers Inlet, with six, there will be one less, the cannery which it is not expected will run there being Inrig which, however, will fish its gear and be used as a camp for B. C. Packers. There will be two instead of three canneries packing in Smith's Inlet this season, Leroy to be used as a camp by the B. C. Packers. Prospects for the Queen Charlotte Islands are uncertain at this early date although it is definite already that neither Massett Canners at Old Massett or Nootka Packing Co. at New Massett will operate, it being an off year for Massett Inlet fish. Possibly Lagoon Bay on the south end of the Islands may pack chums in the fall although there is nothing certain about this.

A preliminary survey indicates that the following canneries will be in operation this year:

Naas River—Arandale, Mill Bay and Wales Island.

Skeena River—Inverness, North Pacific, Sunnyside, Cassiar, Oceanic, Claxton, Carlisle, B. A. and Haysport.

Central—Butedale, Klemtu and Namu.

Bella Coola—Bella Coola and Tallheo.

Rivers Inlet—Beaver, Provincial, Goose Bay, Wadhams, Good Hope and Kildala.

Smith's Inlet—Margaret Bay and Boswell.

Queen Charlotte Islands—Lagoon Bay.

The fine new fisheries patrol cruiser Bonilla Rock II has been paying her first visit to Prince Rupert this week, having arrived Tuesday night to complete outfitting before taking up her permanent station at Bella Coola. Just recently completed in Vancouver, the Bonilla Rock II is a trim and splendidly equipped vessel of 47 feet, 5 inches length, 11 feet, 1½ inches beam and 6 feet depth. She is equipped with a 75 h.p. ten cylinder Vivian full diesel engine and has a speed of ten knots per hour. In charge of the Bonilla Rock II is Ingvald Urseth, local fisheries inspector at Bella Coola, with Mike Christiansen as engineer. She replaces the old Bonilla Rock which is now at Digby Island where she is being inspected with a view to possibly being taken over by the Indian Department for operation out of Alert Bay.

Neil Lang has joined the staff of the Dominion Fisheries office here temporarily, taking over the position of the late Charles E. Barnwell who died some time ago in Vancouver.

The Armour Salvage Co. is assembling its equipment at Goose Harbor, Dundas Island, for salvage operations in connection with the big American freighter Denali of the Alaska Steamship Co. which wrecked on a reef about a mile south of Zayas Island on Sunday. Capt. Paul Armour went out Thursday afternoon with the Pachena, having in tow a donkey boiler scow. On arrival of Capt. Armour at the scene, the Daly, Capt. Oscar Haveroy, which was standing by, was to come in and pick up the derrick scow Skookum III. Practically all this week there have been such strong westerly gales that it has been virtually impossible to do anything in the way of salvage work. The outfit was taken out to Goose Harbor so as to be ready to get right on the job as soon as weather permitted. The plan was to dismantle what was left of the wreck and remove everything worth salvaging therefrom. A crew of men, including engineers and pipe fitters, was also taken out. William Jordan, representative of the Pacific Salvage Co., arrived last night on the Princess Adelaide from Vancouver on business in connection with the wreck and salvage operations.

The veteran Seattle halibut schooner Tordenskjold called at this port on Thursday for bait, being on her way from Seattle to the fishing grounds.

Halibut Landings

The past week saw a total of 416,500 pounds of halibut landed at Prince Rupert, this being the heaviest amount for any week so far this year. Twenty-six Canadian vessels landed a total of 256,500 pounds and twelve American boats 160,000 pounds. Prices during the week were still at a low ebb, the high bid for Canadian fish being 5.8c and 5c which the Cape Beale received for 34,000 pounds and the low 5c straight which several boats were paid. For American fish the high price of the week was 8c and 5c which the Sirius received for 11,500 pounds and the low 6.4c and 5c received by the 'Frisco for 8,500 pounds. Landings for the season up to yesterday totalled 2,181,850 pounds, consisting of 1,195,150 pounds Canadian and 986,700 pounds American fish, as compared with 5,564,565 pounds at a similar date last year made up of 2,689,565 pounds Canadian fish and 2,875,000 pounds American.

The well known steamer Prince Albert, for many years a member of the old Grand Trunk Pacific Steamships fleet and of more recent years engaged in the liquor trade, having been recently purchased by the J. R. Morgan Logging Co. by which concern she is now being reconditioned for use as a tug, arrived on the Queen Charlotte Islands this week to tow her first boom of logs from Sedgewick Bay to Ocean Falls. The vessel, which will be used in towing logs from the Islands to mainland mills, is being renamed the "J. R. Morgan."

Indians of Skidegate, Queen Charlotte Islands, have been delayed this spring in getting out to the trolling grounds owing to an epidemic of influenza which caused the deaths of seven of them. However, their health is returning to normal and they will soon all be out on the grounds again.

Making her final appearance for the season at this port, C. P. R. steamer Princess Norah, Capt. William Palmer, arrived in port at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Skagway and other Alaska points and sailed an hour later for Vancouver. She had on board 48 passengers of whom four disembarked here while three embarked at this port for the south. The Princess Norah, which now goes to the West Coast of Vancouver Island run for the summer, will be replaced on the Alaska run next trip by the steamer Princess Alice which will make one voyage before the Princess Louise comes on for the summer.

Delayed by having had extra heavy freights for waypoints on account of the rush to get goods distributed as against the possibility of a coastal shipping strike, C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. S. K. Gray, did not arrive in port until 10:45 last night, sailing several hours later on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. In spite of the threatened marine strike, officers of the Princess Adelaide stated that they expected to make the usual voyage north next week, with an extra run north of here to Ketchikan.

Running more than twelve hours late after having been delayed on the trip north by extra heavy freights, Union steamer Cardena, Capt. Ernest Georgeson, arrived in port at 1:30 this morning from the south, sailing one hour later on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. It has been announced that, if the seafarers' strike is not settled by next Tuesday evening when she is scheduled to sail from Vancouver, the Cardena will not make her regular voyage north next week.

The local halibut boat Mae West (formerly Ternen), Capt. Sinclair Pierce, left yesterday for the halibut banks after a week in port. On the last trip in, the Ternen struck very rough weather, lost considerable gear and the crew, in fact, had a narrow escape.
