An independent newspaper devoted to the upbuilding. of Prince Rupert and Northern and Central British Columbia. A member of the Canadian Press — Audit Bureau of Circulation Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association Published by The Prince Rupert Daily News Limited

> JOHN F. MAGOR President

J. R. AYRES Managing Editor

Authorized as Second Class Mail by the Post Office Department, Ottawa.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1961

Where is our sense of values?

ed the faculty to "get tough" on the should come first. students so they might be better prepared for higher education when they leave high school or simply better prepared for life itself if they don't seek higher education.

One of the difficulties teachers face everywhere nowadays is the con- up those teachers who are trying to flict for their students' time and in- teach. They're only trying to better terests by the numerous extra-curric- equip the minds of your child and ular activities of the schools. These mine.—Pittsburgh (Texas) Gazette.

When parents complain about teach- activities are very valuable in broaders overloading their children-ening the experience and developing with school work on the night of a the personalities of the students and football game, it's time they adjusted there are supplemental educational their sense of values. henefits, but that's where they belong Recently the school board instruction. ... as supplements. Basic education

> Some students simply try to carry too heavy a load. Proper counseling can help advise some of those who overload themselves.

But to the study load . . . let's back

Good weekend coming but not for game

My friend Lee Straight told his readers that the big hunting week-end is just ahead. "It promises to be a good one," said he.

Good for who? Not for the grouse, I guess, or the deer, or This annual slaughter troubles me. What good does it do you, men? What did the birds ever do to you that you buy $200 worth of killing equipment, get out of bed at 5 a.m., drive 150 miles, and hide in the bush until the prey comes near enough to murder or at least torture? . . . Don't tell me about not enjoying the shooting as much as getting away out into the fresh

You can get away without taking life. You can carry a camera as easily as your gun.

Well, of course, I suppose it's the sportsmanship that appeals to you. Here you are, a little bit of a 190-pound man. You go out there in the wilds with nothing but a high-powered car and a long-range gun and a dog. . . . You pit yourself against a fierce, savage, wild fighting bird, a duck.

I guess that must be it. I guess that is what gives you that kill thrill. Or no — maybe you go out to torture and slay because you're hungry. You need the meat, Pete? You must indeed be hungry to get it that way. . . .

Every season some of you great nimrods are stupid enough or drunk enough to mistake a man for a moose....

This is the one good break the animals get. __ Barry Mather in Vancouver Sun

EXPULSIONS SCHEDULED

Khrushchev winning battle against enemies

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN — The events at the Soviet Com- such men as Walter Ulbricht, the Stalinist boss munist party congress in Moscow suggest that of East Germany, and others of his stamp. Soviet Premier Khrushchev is winning the battle against his enemies in the party and setting the scene for an announcement of a arity with the workers of the whole world." house-cleaning.

It seems likely that the purge already is press, and seems to have a lot of hidden under way. Probably it was started well in ad- meaning. vance of the 22nd party congress, at least at the lower levels.

But Khrushchev wants and apparently needs total victory. This means at a minimum the expulsion from the Communist party of those he labelled anti-party in 1957

The congress can provide the machinery for Khrushchev's purposes. Awaiting formal approval are some new ideas concerning the events of 1960 — with its two separate world statutes by which the Communist party is sup- Communist declarations from Bucharest and posed to govern itself. expelling and punishing members who have Chinese. fallen into disgrace. There are indications that new sins will be invented, such as failure level a direct challenge at Khrushchev's right to show sufficient devotion to the Communist to revise ideology and create new theory. The cause or lack of faithfulness to the principle of collective leadership. If Khrushchev has won, it will mean expulsion from the party and possibly worse for iormer premier Georgi Malenkov, for Lazar Kaganovich, the onetime commissar of the Ukraine and a Stalin stalwart, for old former foreign minister V. M. Molotov, former premier Nikolai Bulganin and many others. There may be shocks outside Russia, too. Those Communists in parties abroad, particularly in the satellite nations, who have failed to show sufficient devotion to Khrushchev's interpretation of Marxism-Leninism may be headed for the political axe.

from this congress — could well cover that he is to retain his grip and put his internal

The sin which may be invented for such Communists is failure to show "fraternal solid-This phrase already has shown up in the Soviet

If the Khrushchev purge is unveiled, it is likely to have a shock effect in the ranks of world communism, which has been in a state of confusion for several years now regarding the newest revisions of Communist ideological

This confusion has been compounded by the Moscow conclaves — and by the obvious tug of The changes may involve new methods for ideological war going on with the Communist

> The Chinese are going so far, in fact, as to Chinese, with a show of something suspiciously like scorn, insist Khrushchev is far off base when he pronounces new doctrine. One such tenet rejected by the Chinese is that all "socialist" countries will achieve "communism" more or less at the same time. Khrushchev, the Chinese say by implication, is talking nonsense, particularly since he shies away from the notion that war is inevitable. Every capitalist country in the world; however small, must be brought to its knees, the Chinese insist, before anybody can talk seriously about the achievement of communism in countries ruled by the Communists.

A Khrushchev purge in his own backyard now can widen this sort of rift seriously. But A new party declaration — one is expected Khrushchev may consider he has no choice if phase of the purge, which could bring down program for the Soviet Union on the rails,

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Insignificant Albania used as whipping boy

By ED SIMON Canadian Press Staff Writer

The emergence of tiny Albania as the Issue Western criticism of Communist dictatorship; in an unprecedented exchange between Nikita Khrushchev and Chou En-Lai is roughly the equivalent of a public debate between the president and the chairman of the board of a corthe size of Nova Scotia, ranks among the least significent units of the Communist empire, premier cannot afford the luxury of a break Its disappearance into the Soviet orbit at the with his Chinese or East German allies. end of the second World War was harely not iced by the rest of the world.

Albania's Enver Hoxha aroused mild interest when he chose to support the Chinese Communists in their criticism of Khrushchov's proclamation of peaceful co-existence rather than unromitting class war as a basis for relations with the West, But East Germany's Walter Ulbricht and other better-known leadors also gave evidence of sharing China's views.

Possibly it was Albania's very insignificance. that prompted Khrushchev to make an example of it in his stinging attack at the party congress in Moscow.

tralist Yugoslavia are among Albania's noighbors, the nature of the present dispute makes it unlikely that Hoxha would seek common cause rather, he is attacked for being insufficiently Communist, for failing to how to the line of Marxist-Loninist theory. Coming from Peking or East Borlin, both poration over the state of the monisplocket and spots in Bast-West relations, such sentiments had to be met with all the diplomacy The primitive little Balkan state, about half, the hot-tempored Khrushchev could muster. In the present state of world tension, the Russian

But there was no necessity for similar caution in dealing with Tirana. In lashing out at his Albanian critics, Khrushchov is in an excollent position to get across a few home truths to like-minded individuals elsewhere.

The same considerations apply to Chou's urbane and indirect espousal of Albania's cause at the party congress. The Chinese premier was able to wring applause from his fellow-Communists with a pious plea for unity in the

Everyone knows

Big city nowspaper manager to friend run-Although Greece, a Western ally, and new ning a little country weekly: "Flow can you everybody already knows what everyone disc quarrel with Khrushelrev is not based on the

HANDY GLOSSARY

Hypocritical double talk used by us all many times every day

By HAL BOYLE Associated Press Staff Writer NEW YORK — How good are you at double talk?

You may think you don't use double talk at all. But you do—probably many times every

To double talk merely means to say one thing when you actually mean something else. Here is a partial glossary of double talk phrases—and what they really mean — which you may read or use yourself at almost any time:

"What a pleasant surprise bumping into you this way!" - (If I'd seen you coming, I'd have run the other way.) "What's new with you?" (Don't tell me. I've got my own troubles.)

"Haven't you put on a little weight, man?" (He must eat from a trough to get that fat.) "On you it looks good." (It couldn't look funnier if it was on a giraffe.)

"What a cute baby! Please may I hold him." (If the little monster is wet, I'll fling him on the floor.) "We like to regard this as a team organization." (I call the signals; you get the bruises.) "Move to the rear of the bus, please. (Then throw yourselves out the back window, for all I

"We must get together again real soon." (Soon after the start of the 22nd century.) PHONE DODGE

"Sure, call me at the office anytime." (And if my secretary tells you I'm in, she'll be looking for a new job.) "I never saw you looking better in your life." (I wonder if I ever looked that bad.) "How do you manage to keep so young?" (Gosh, old girl,

"Are you sure there isn't anything I can do for you?" ... (Meanwhile, you do something

you're really falling apart for me: drop dead.) "No, I mean it. I think you're a very good dancer." (Get off my feet, you bum.)

"Cross my heart, honey, I'll be on the 6:12 train for sure. (I will if it doesn't leave until "The boss piled a last-minute. job on me. I'll be at the office late." (I will, that is, if every night club in town closes.) "Whatever gave you the silly idea I married you for your money " (Whatever gave you the silly idea I didn't?) "It's early yet. Why don't you all stay and have one more for the road?" (What's the matter with these people? Don't they have homes of their own to go

"I enjoyed your last column very much." (Who wrote it for

The lighter side

A Scotsman, inviting a friend to a party, explained to him how to get to his apart-

"Come to the fifth floor and when you see the letter "M" on the door, push the button with your elbow and when the door opens put your foot

"But why must I use my elbow and foot?" the friend "For goodness sakes, you're not coming empty-handed, are you?" EDITOR'S NOTE-Signed articles - and editorials credited to other newspapers do not necessarily re-fleet the views of The Daily News;

UNITED STATES AMMASSANOR Adlat Stovenson, right, poses with Syrian ambassador Farid Chehloui at the United Nations ing member of the UN, merged with the United Arab Republic in 1088. It broke away from the UAR last month. - OP Photo from AP

Quote and unquote

Even the three horses of the troika did not have three drivers, all going in different directions. They, had only one, and so must the United Nations executive. - President Kennedy.

It looks as if Paris were trying to make a Europe a l'anglaise without the English. -M. Guy Mollet.

The law of England has no use for gunmen.—Mr. Justice

+ + + The car is becoming merely a status symbol. The only purpose in getting one is to stand in traffic jams while empty trains go by.— Mr. Richard Crossman.

Whatever I do in the future will not get involved in politics or affairs of state.—Miss Brigitte Bardot.

+ + +

Packsack Packsack

Copyright: Canada Wide Gold has always enjoyed popularity as a decorative material ever since the days of King Nebuchadnezzar, or even further back. But within the past three or four years manusac-

turers and designers appear to have gone a little berimpossible to buy a chesterfield suite that did not have gold thread worked into the upholstery. Curtains, drapes and even carpets have been more or less discreetly sprinkled with gold thread. Next came wash cloths and towels. And in trying to get some linoleum for the summer cabin the past season we had a tough. Some old fashioned mothtime avoiding gold splatter- ers who can remember their dashed on most patterns in husband's first kiss now have was interested to see a very curious glossy golden object displayed. It was about two feet long and as big around as my hind leg, and complete-"Ah," said the proprietress of the art shop, "that is drift-"You mean." I gasped, "driftwood gilded?" "Well, no," she said, "actually it is plaster shaped to look like driftwood and then Eece-yow!

Short sermons

Psychiatrists say it's not good for a man to keep too much to himself. So does the Receiver General of Canada.

pursuit of gracious living. daughters who can't remem-In a gift shop yesterday, I. ber their first husbands.

Next time you ask for tye, say 'Rock Mount'. Mature and full-flavoured, the way real rye whisky should taste.

DISTILLERS