Prince George has Large and Varied Passenger List—Trying To Salvage Tug—Prince Charles In With Tourists.

Her capacity taxed by one of the heaviest lists of passengers she has ever carried, C. N. R. steamer Prince George, Capt. H. E. Nedden, arrived in port on time at 10 o'clock yesterday morning from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and sailed at 3 p.m. for Skagway and other Alaska points whence she is scheduled to return her on Monday next southbound. Leaving Vancouver the Prince George had more than two hundred passengers on board, the large majority being round trip tourists. Included among these are a party of Toronto doctors—among them Dr. R A. McDombe, Dr. F. F. Tisdale and Dr. J. Cleaver, accompanied by their wives—who have been attending the recent convention of the Canadian Medical Association in Vancouver and Victoria. At Alert Bay the Prince George made a special call to pick up sixteen Alaska-bound passengers who had to leave the American motorship Zapora when that vessel broke her crankshaft off Haddington Island while northbound, being towed back to Seattle for repairs. These passengers were Miss Ruth Lindquist for Skagway; Mrs. Hoffman, Miss Lois Standefer, Mrs Helen Stiffler, Mrs. L. M. McLeod and George Matheson for Juneau, and Mrs. Wilcox, James Wilcox, Donald Wilcox, Elizabeth Wilcox, J. D. Randensky, P. J. Bishop, Robert Bishop, Harvard Luce, Peter G. Frederickson and Ruby Rendero for Ketchikan. The Prince George's passenger list was further added to here by the Crescent Shows carnival party which, after a week's stand here, took passage with its outfit to Ketchikan.

Two western and three local boats sold halibut catches at Seattle on Tuesday totalling 91,600 pounds. The sales were as follows: Paragon, 39,500 pounds, Sebastian-Stuart, 8c and 7½c; Tahoma, 25,000, Washington, 7⅝c; Aloha, 15,000 (also 6,500 cod), San Juan, 9c, 8c and 2c; Bertha, 6,600 (also 2,600 cod), New England, 8½c, 7½c and 2c; Rosario, 5,500 (also 3,000 sablefish and 1,000 cod), 8½c, 7½c and 2c.

Making her first voyage of the summer season on the Queen Charlotte Islands run, C. N. R. steamer Prince Charles, Capt. Dan McKinnon, arrived in port at 8 o'clock this morning with a full complement of passengers numbered among whom were quite a number of tourists who reported having had a highly enjoyable cruise north on this popular ship. The most of these tourists will board the steamer Prince Rupert tomorrow to make the trip to Anyox and Stewart and thence south. They include Mrs. L. M. and Miss L. Dougall, Mrs. F. C. Bell, Miss M. Fuller, Miss K. Tulloch and W. R. Harvey of Vancouver; Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Gorell, Capt. and Mrs. J. St. Clair and Dr. F. D. McKenty of Victoria; Miss L. M. Bennett and M. Holtby of New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Groff and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. Small and Miss C. Worlds of Seattle and Dr. M. A. Kranz of Los Angeles. The Prince Rupert, coming north this trip, will bring a number of passengers who will transfer to the Prince Charles Saturday evening to return south via the Islands.

Capt. W. P. Armour, manager of the Armour Salvage Co., left last night with the company's tug Daly for Boxer Reef near Butedale where another attempt will be made on the high tides at the end of this week to refloat the Vancouver tug D.B M. which stranded there last week while engaged in towing logs from the Queen Charlotte Islands to the mainland.

Southbound after a specially arranged cruise to Alaska which took in a number of points of interest in addition to those usually visited by the Alaska boats, C. P. R. steamer Princess Charlotte, Capt. William Palmer, is due in port at 6:30 this evening and will be here for a few hours to allow a full list of passengers to see the city. The Princess Charlotte spent a couple of hours at Port Simpson this afternoon after cruising around the entrance of Portland Canal this morning. Frank Fitch, local immigration officer, went to Ketchikan aboard the Prince George yesterday to meet the Princess Charlotte in his official capacity and accompany her here.

The United Church is to re-establish a mission boat at Queen Charlotte City to serve various Island points. For this purpose the boat Udal, formerly owned by Capt. William Oliver, veteran missionary, has been acquired and is being brought north from Vancouver to Queen Charlotte City by Mr. Oliver's son, Robert Oliver Rev. William Selder has been appointed the new missionary at Queen Charlotte and will be in charge of the operation of the Udal to various Island points including the Moresby Island logging camps.

At Seven Mile Point trolling has been better so far than at North Island on the average. Cohoes are beginning to appear in greater numbers.

According to word received from the Queen Charlotte Islands the Massett Canners salmon cannery at Old Massett plans on starting the season's canning operations on Friday of this week.

PLAYGROUND REGISTRATIONS

TERRACE STILL FEELING EFFECTS OF DISASTER

expectations destroyed. The houses were in these cases submerged and the furniture, etc., ruined beyond repair.

One of the effects of the recent flood was the uncanny nervous tension that existed on the night of June 3. Almost no one went to sleep. The wierd sound of the river penetrated everywhere. Even now, four weeks after, some of the housewives are nervous wrecks and seem still to hear that sound which was truly nerve-wracking.

Some Idea of Damage

A busy man cannot go about to pick up the whole story of the calamity by which the Lower Skeena has been visited, but a few items he has been able to observe may give some idea:

At Dorreen the fine farm of Mr. Carpenter, which has been cultivated for the past twenty years, is destroyed by the deposit upon it of river sand and gravel.

At Usk, many homes went down the river. Others have drifted into piles of debris resting, when the water subsided, at precarious angles having left their foundations and been settled on stumps or uneven ground. Practically all furniture, books, musical instruments are destroyed. There is an incongruous shack leaning against the church.

At Terrace the Loen's lost their pretty home. The house floated away and, carried with terrific force, crashed with a heart-rending tearing sound against a huge cottonwood. A crowd of people stood watching.

Mr. Goodwin lost his old homestead which he pre-empted in the halcyon days of the real estate boom. He also lost all his garden and orchard so that now the railway is right on the edge of the river where formerly there was a pleasant farm to see.

The Franks lost about the six acres of their best dairy land. This is another of the good farms which have been cultivated for many years.

Brauns' Island is a wreck. Six or eight farms there are destroyed partly by river cutting, partly by deposit of gravel on the good land and partly by being covered with a huge confusion of debris. The bridge leading on to the Island managed to stay but, in its present shape, it cannot be used. The bridge itself is bent and unsafe and the land at each end has been scooped out by the river into two huge pits.

Sherwoods lost their kitchen garden and most of their orchard by the land was being cut away. The home is still in place but it is regarded as unsafe whenever the river goes on the rampage again. The barn and root cellar floated away and vanished.

Another special tour party will arrive here at 9 o'clock next Sunday morning aboard the steamer Princess Norah which has been specially chartered to carry members of Islam Shrine Temple of San Francisco on an Alaska cruise. There will be upwards of one hundred persons in this party.
