ONTARIO FARMERS DO WELL

much lower than on his last visit east. He said the competition from the auto camps and house cars was great and it became necessary to meet the competition.

Boom in Ottawa

The Prince Rupert visitor spent a month in Ottawa, which was experiencing something of a boom. Houses were going up, financed often by government loans. The farmers in the neighborhood were doing well, selling all their produce, including pulp wood, in the cities and towns. They received $1.25 in the field for potatoes and 90 cents a bushel for barley. The United States demand for barley had driven prices up to more than double what it was normally.

Many of the farmers were buying cattle from the prairies where feed was scarce. These feeders were shipped in large quantities, the government paying half the freight in lots of 100 or more. Reciprocity had, undoubtedly, been good for Ontario.

The visitor was enthused over the excellent roads they had everywhere. They could drive anywhere and towns were only about six miles apart on the average. Manufacturing plants were dotted all over the country but some of those in the south were handicapped by lack of water.

Coming west to Winnipeg, where Mr. McPherson once lived, he found the city very dull. Mornings there was hardly anyone on the streets, a very different condition from what it was several years ago when he visited it.

Saskatchewan too did not look too good to him as he passed through. He saw farm houses with the windows boarded up and Saskatoon he was told was very quiet. Edmonton, on the other hand, was prosperous, building in progress and the city was busy.

What a wonderful climate this would be if every autumn day were like today.

The drum does not make much music but it often drowns a lot of bad music.

"You might as well be out of the world as out of fashion," according to an old adage. To live successfully and happily you must know the most fashionable name for hash.

The very latest thing in weddings is to throw puffed rice at the bride and groom.

The preacher met one of his flock. "You were not at service last Sunday," said the parson. "Too wet," was the laconic reply. "But," protested the minister, "it's always dry inside." "That's another reason I wasn't there."

Namu Cannery Still Operating—Halibut Landings Light—Sawmill At Dodge Cove

The only cannery in Prince Rupert district still running, the B. C. Packers plant at Namu in Fitzhugh Sound is still packing salmon. It is receiving its fish, principally chums, from the seining areas of Rivers Inlet and the Queen Charlotte Islands and is running from day to day as long as the supply holds out. In all other parts of the district fishing and canning has been over for some time.

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert for the past week amounted to the exceptionally light volume of but 175,500 pounds consisting of 54,500 pounds from five Canadian vessels and 121,000 pounds from six American boats. This brings the season's total up to 10,167,100 pounds as compared with 10,270,300 pounds at a corresponding date a year ago. This year's grand total of Canadian landings is 5,366,600 pounds in comparison with last year's 4,796,000 pounds while the American total for this year is 4,800,500 pounds in comparison with 5,474,300 pounds a year ago. Prices on Canadian fish during the week ranged from a low of 9c and 6c paid the Prosperity A for 20,000 pounds to a high of 10c and 6c received by the Cape Spencer for 10,000 pounds. For American fish the high was 11.6c and 7c which the Augusta and Diana received for 14,000 and 9,000 pounds respectively and the low 10.9c and 7c paid the Superior for 24,000 pounds.

A sawmill has been added to the equipment of the fishermen's community of Dodge Cove on Digby Island across the harbor from the city of Prince Rupert The mill has been established by J. Hadland and sons, who for some years have been operating a mill at Oona River, another fishing community on Porcher Island. It is already in operation.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, arrived in port at 12 midnight last night from the south and, waiting out the fog, sailed at 6 o'clock this morning on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

The halibut boat Gibson, Capt. Chris Henrickson, limped into port at the middle of the week for repairs after having lost her rudder in Hecate Straits during a storm while packing chum salmon from the Queen Charlotte Islands to Namu. The fish was transferred to the Delphinium here and taken on to Namu.

Helpful Weather Reports

Weather information being furnished from Prince Rupert by federal government telegraph and radio facilities is now proving of invaluable assistance to aerial navigation along the coast, particularly between Alaska and the south. Yesterday the Government

The Department of Marine advises mariners that the gas and whistling buoy formerly located on Oval Bank, Hecate Straits, has been moved northward to a position off Grenville Rocks, Hecate Straits, and will show a flashing red light.

Telegraphs received a message from Ketchikan acknowledging information along this line, stating that, as a result of it, an airplane flight had been made from Ketchikan to Seattle in the short time of six hours and ten minutes.

Allan Large, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Large, while swinging in the woods near his home on Fourth Avenue East yesterday afternoon, was thrown about twenty feet to the ground, landing on his head and being rendered unconscious for a time. He was taken to the Prince Rupert General Hospital where it was found that there were no fractures although he was suffering from shock and a severe shaking up. He was removed to his home this afternoon. It is his twelfth birthday today.

DRAMA IS POIGNANT

Sylvia Sydney and Spencer Tracy Are Starred in "Fury" Coming For Holiday

Sylvia Sydney and Spencer Tracy are said to constitute a romantic team of unusual appeal in "Fury," the Thanksgiving holiday first of the week feature offering on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here. The story is a hard-hitting depiction of lawlessness in America.

Tracy and Miss Sydney are a typical American couple planning to marry. He is arrested as a suspect in a community where a kidnapping has just occurred and circumstantial evidence blackens his case. Rumors spread and trouble-makers in the town stir up a demonstration that ends in a furious attack upon the prison in which Tracy is being held. The mob drags out the victim and fires the prison. Fate, however, takes a hand to pursue the men and women responsible for the murder. The denouement is an unusually dramatic courtroom scene. The whole picture is a gripping drama such as recurs constantly in the United States.

An excellent supporting cast appears in the film including Frank Albertson, George Walcott, Walter Abel, Bruce Cabot, Walter Brennan and Edward Ellis.
