THE RISING TIDE

The latest thing in religious propaganda is the issue of a picture magazine on similar lines to "Life" dealing wholly with the work of the Oxford Group Movement. In a million copies, it is appearing in ten countries and nine languages. It was put together by men and women who were new to journalism and who gave their time and money without compensation. It is full of pictures from cover to cover with a very small amouts of reading matter and is equal to the very best in magazine publishing.

The editors say they have but one wish, "that these pages can serve as a rallying point for the constructive forces of the country, perhaps an instrument of a united Christian front, in which every party and point of view can have a place. The editors simply want these pages to stimulate, challenge, point the way, encourage men and women everywhere to the practice of those elementary truths which not only supply meaning and character to the life of the individual, but which form the security of business both for capital and labor, which create the moral and spiritual climate for the Canadian home, and which furnish the only sure basis of Canadian democracy."

One feature of the publication is that, with very minor exception, the people pictured are very happy. This is particularly evident in the pictures covering the central spread of two pages entitled "True Patriots" where hundreds of young men "The Vanguard of The New Enlistment" are evidently being addressed by a speaker who is amusing them. There are brief letters of commendation from the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Christian Richard, Roman Catholic, the Bishop of Rangoon, the president of Princeton Theological Seminary, the president of the Federal Council of Churches and the Primate of the Lutheren Churches in Denmark.

The publication is a remarkable one and indicates the growing strength of the Oxford Group movement in the world.

THE SHORTEST DAY

This is the shortest day of the year so from this time on the days will gradually get longer and we shall begin soon to look forward to spring. There may be a deal of wintery weather yet but it is good to feel that the sun will be shining more brightly and the nights will be shorter as time passes.

FAMOUS IN WORLD WAR

General Ludendorff Achieved International Note as Hindenburg's Chief of Staff

MUNICH, Dec. 21: (CP)—General Erich Ludendorff, who acquired international fame as a strategist, organizer and resourceful man of action in the field throughout the whole theatre of the World War during which he was chief of staff under and chief military associate of the late Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, succumbed yesterday to bladder ailment. The 72-year old warrior had been operated on November 29 and seemed to be recuperating until Sunday night when his condition took a sudden turn for the worse.

Great Soldier

General Ludendorff was one of Germany's last surviving Great War military figures. After the war, however, his demagogical activities, intensified by his predilection for caustic remarks, soon estranged him from the army and the people.

During the revolution in 1918 Ludendorff realized that his influence in the country was gone Sensing the danger of being impeached by the revolutionary government on a charge of having prolonged the war and thereby indirectly having brought about the collapse of the army, he took refuge in Sweden. While there he wrote his war memoirs and returned to Germany in the spring of 1919.

From that time he was conspicuous in every revolutionary movement that seemed to promise success. During the Kapp putsch of March, 1920, Ludendorff was a frequent visitor at the Berlin headquarters of Kapp's usurping government. When that movement failed, he went to Bavaria, where in 1920 and 1921 a reactionary administration held sway and where his name and influence soon became identified with the royalists.

Suspected of having been implicated in the Hitler coup in Munich in 1923, he was arraigned before the Munich tribunal in 1924 on a charge of high treason. He was acquitted after a sensational trial.

Was Fascist

In May, 1924, as a candidate of the German Fascists, Ludendorff was elected a deputy of the Reichstag but there amid surroundings quite alien to him he showed to poor advantage, scarcely ever speaking in public. Thereafter, he took every opportunity of combatting by word and script the republican regime, Free Masonry and the Jews which, he insisted, were alike harmful to the regeneration of Germany.

A group of Bavarian staff officers in September, 1924, published a manifesto disavowing Ludendorff as a brother officer on the ground that his post-war activities were not in conformity with the code of military ethics. That repudiation he countered with the public rejoinder: "My powers belong to the people. The upper 10,000 are worthless."

Later his admirers made an unsuccessful attempt to put him up as a candidate for president of the German republic.

Life Long Soldier

General Erich Ludendorff was born April 9, 1865, near Schwerzens, in former German Posen. He received his early training at the military academies of Ploen and Gross Lichterfelde and was given a commission as lieutenant in 1882. Attached to the general staff as a captain in 1895, he continued to serve with it until 1913 when he was given command of the 39th regiment of fusiliers at Duesseldorf.

In April, 1914, Ludendorff was put in command of a brigade at Strassburg and at the outbreak of the World War was appointed quartermaster general of the Second Army. It was at the storming of Liege during the night of August 5-6 that he won recognition for his valorous conduct and two weeks later was made a general and attached to Field Marshall von Hindenburg as his chief of staff.

Aircraft Unable To Operate From Yukon Outward

Flying conditions have been impossible between Whitehorse and Skagway during the past few days and, as a result, a number of passengers who were to have come out from the interior to go south on the steamer Princess Norah, which was here yesterday afternoon, were unable to reach Skagway before the vessel sailed. Among them was Jack Sutherland of this city who has been spending the past year in Dawson and who was to have spent the Yuletide season at his home here. Now he will be unable to get here until after the New Year.
