Public Utilities Bill To Be Introduced Next Week In Legislature

Is Hailed as "Biggest Bill in Years"—Widespread and Undisputeable Powers To Be Set Up

VICTORIA, November 19: (CP)— The Legislature yesterday took week-end adjournment with prospects that the budget debate will wind up next week after which the government will probably introduce the public utilities bill. It is described by government supporters as the "biggest bill in years" and it is understood may include regulatory powers over provincial operations of rail, bus and air transportation, telegraph and telephone communications, fuel, water, light and power utilities. It is intimated that care will be taken to avoid any conflict with federal authority. Administration, it is believed, would be under a one to three-man board responsible to the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council without right to appeal to the courts. General terms are believed to include clauses under which the control board could inquire into operations and capitalization of any utility in the province.

SCOUT ASS'N IS FORMED

Organization of Boys' Movement Extended in Prince Rupert

In spite of numerous other attractions, a goodly number of the parents of the Boy Scouts of First Prince Rupert Troop attended the annual meeting of the troop committee which was held this week in the Toc H rooms. The President, Dr. Neal Carter, was in the chair. This meeting served a double purpose as it was attended by a committee of the Second Prince Rupert (Canadian Legion) Troop for the formation of a local Boy Scout' Association.

The proceedings, opened with a few remarks by the chairman touching on the chief activities of the committee during the past year. He then called on the Rev. R. C. H. Durnford, Scoutmaster of Second Prince Rupert Troop, to speak briefly on the meaning of the words, "Scouting for Boys." He strongly emphasized the fact that Scouting was non-military, non-denominational and international. "A Scout," he said, "cannot be an isolationist." In the Scout movement with its millions of boys and men of every creed, race and color under the sun, bound to look upon every man as a "friend and brother," lay a potential force for world peace, far surpassing any product of Geneva. "We should be proud," he added, "that a British subject founded the Scout movement" though now it has become an international and a supra-national organization." Mr. Durnford's forceful words were deeply appreciated by his audience.

The chairman then outlined the duties of a local association which is formed when two or more troops are in existence as a governing body of the Scout movement in the district.

Nominations were then made to the executive of the new association. Those selected to represent First Prince Rupert Troop were: Dr. Carter, F. A. MacCallum, C. V. Evitt and J. H. Nordan, while those for Second Prince Rupert Troop were Messrs. Lamb, Breen, Brown. It was decided that the executive would elect its officers at a later meeting.

Dr. Carter laid before the meeting the duties of the group committee which sponsors each troop. The following persons were elected to the committee of First Prince Rupert Troop: E. O. Aves, F. A. MacCallum, C. V. Evitt, P. C. Miller and N. L. Jones, with officers to be elected later.

Badges Presented

A financial report, read by the treasurer, J. H. Nordan, showed all accounts paid and a modest balance in the bank.

Mrs. E. O. Aves, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, outlined the accomplishments of her little band of Scout mothers who have so generously helped the troop.

The Scoutmaster of the First Prince Rupert Troop, E. R. M. Yerburgh, then read a detailed account of the work of the Troop since its inception on September 29, 1937 with a small group of boys in the Toc H rooms. He traced its growth to the present time when it has a membership of eighteen invested Scouts and nine recruits. In his closing remarks he paid special tribute to Dr. Carter for his unfailing support and keen interest in the work of the troop. In the name of the Scouts of First Prince Rupert Troop he presented to Dr. Carter, as a mark of their gratitude, the Scout Thanks Badge.

Next the gratitude of the troop to Mrs. Aves, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, was shown by the presentation to her of the Lady Worker's Badge.

Finally the Soutmaster presented J. H. Nordan, the secretary and examiner for several of the tests, with the examiner's badge.

Each badge was accompanied by
