HANSON'S NOMINATION

Yesterday Olof Hanson was nominated as Liberal candidate for a third term in the Canadian House of Commons and, judging by everything that can be heard around Prince Rupert and from visitors from outside points, he is likely to be elected. The Liberal convention was absolutely unanimous except for the fact that of the fifty or more delegates present possibly thirty or forty felt themselves just as capable of doing the job as Mr. Hanson. That is Liberalism. However they evidently thought that Mr. Hanson was the next best man and they voted for him without mentioning their own secret aspirations. All recognized in him a man who looks after the interests of his constituency and supports Liberal policies.
