HE'LL BE BACK

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 8: (CP)—Morris Daley, who broke several ribs while riding on a cattle ranch near Mackay, declares he is 104 years old. At the hospital where he is being cared for he says he expects to be "back at work soon."

NO MOOD FOR PEACE

PETERSBURG, August 8: (CP)—Peace movements in South Africa are not very popular. A peace campaign speech by a member of parliament here attracted less than 40 women and children instead of expected thousands.

TALKED TOO MUCH

LONDON, Aug. 8: (CP)— Because he "talked not only without knowledge of facts but foolishly and in a know-it-all spirit to impress his hearers," an arsenal worker here was fined $44.50.

START NEW INDUSTRY

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Aug. 8: (CP)—Negotiations are being conducted looking to the establishment of a tapioca flour industry. The main source of Ceylon's supply is the Federated Malay States.

LEFT THREE NOTES

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 8: (CP)— After writing three notes, one to the coroner, one to his wife and the other to his children, a man who broke his spine over a year ago hanged himself at his home.

HELP FROM U.S.

LONDON, Aug. 8: (CP) — The Royal National Lifeboat Institution has received a check for $556.25 from a United States manufacturing firm. The money was to show the firm's sympathy with Great Britain.

HINDU MOSLEM FIGHT

AKBARPUR, India, Aug. 8: (CP)—One person was killed and several injured in an agrarian riot between Hindus and Moslems in this village, 30 miles from Gonda.

TALKS OF INVASION

Section

employed by the Germans to penetrate it.

"While its seriousness should be by no means minimized, it seems to me that here in Prince Rupert this anticipated invasion has been looked upon with altogether too much apprehension," said the speak.

"True, we may have suffered in the past from too much complacency and wishful thinking in regard to this war. Possibly we may have been inclined against facing the facts but I think it is a great mistake to believe that all Fritz has to do is to come over with a few clouds of airplanes and that will be the end of the British Isles and that Adolf then will sail over and take Canada and the United States. It is such an attitude the the Nazi propaganda machine is undoubtedly endeavouring to engender.

Hitler's Waterloo

"I think that we are justified in believing that, if and when Hitler strikes in real earnest at the British Isles, there he will find his Waterloo. Hitler is going to have a rough time landing in the British Isles. If he ever does, a lot of Germans are going to be butchered and that it will be the turning point on the war. There has been evidence already that Britons, in the defence of their island, are too strong for the enemy. Intensified attack will make that even more evident, I believe. It is to be expected, and to be regretted, that this Battle of Britain will cost a good deal of suffering, hardship and, probably, death for the civilian population but there is no reason to believe that Britons cannot take it. It is also a grave mistake, I believe, to feel that Britons will not also fight back and give the enemy blow for blow in his own territory. In fact there is no denying that our air force has already demonstrated its superiority in operations abroad.

"Caesar proved twenty centuries ago that the invasion and the conquest of Britain are far from synonymous. Not since 1066, when William of Normandy defeated King Harold's English troops at Hastings, has an alien foe set foot in any serious force on the British Isles. Since then many have subsequently contemplated it. Some have tried it to their sorrow. I do not think it is wishful thinking to predict that the contemplated German move, which Britons have come to regard as inevitable, can never be successful."

The speaker described some defence measures—military and civil — which had been taken to forestall success of an invasion of the British Isles should the enemy ever pass the naval and air defences and achieve an actual landing.

Mention was made in an historical vein of the Roman invasion around the beginning of the Christian era, the Norman conquest of 1066 and, subsequently, the ambitious attempt of the Spanish armada in 1588, Napoleon's plan of 1805, the John Paul Jones episode and the stabs on British soil by Imperial Germany during the first Great War—all of which latter threats had uniformly failed.

"BLUE BIRD" BEAUTIFUL

Outstanding Picture in Technicolor Coming to Capitol Screen Tonight and Friday

"Blue Bird," beautiful filmbration of Maurice Maeterlink's fantasy romance of the same name, is the feature picture on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here for tonight and Friday. All the spectacular wonders of the world renowned masterpiece of fiction are said to be faithfully and delightfully portrayed in the film. Latest developments in the art of color photography have been employed and the result is an almost three dimension effect, it is stated. All of this enhances such scenes as the flaming forest, the land of the future with the children yet to be, the past where loved ones live again, the hurricane, the amazing palace floating in mid-air, the house of luxury and the mystic lake.

As those who have read the book know Maeterlink got his idea from the folklore of Lorraine where the natives have long treasured the legend of the blue bird.

Whifflets
From The Waterfront

Carrying her largest list of passengers so far this season on the Alaska tourist route, C. N. R. steamer Prince George, Capt. H. E. Nedden, was in port from 11 o'clock yesterday morning until 3 in the afternoon bound from Vancouver to Skagway. The large majority of the passengers were round trip tourists. So crowded was the vessel that it was impossible to find accomodation for all the passenger traffic offering at Vancouver before she left.

C. P. R. steamer Princess Alice, Capt. Robert Thomson, was in port from 4 o'clock to 5:30 yesterday afternoon southbound from Skagway to Vancuver with a list of 123 passengers, consisting largely of round trip Alaska tourists. Two passengers disembarked from the Princess Alice here, and six took passage from Prince Rupert aboard her for the south.

Six vessels—three American and three Canadian—were in port yesterday with halibut catches. The American boats had a total of 96,500 pounds and the Canadian, 42,500 pounds. Prices continue to hold up well, American fish receiving from 10.1c and 8c to 11.2c and 8c and Canadian from 11.4c and 7.5c to 11.5c and 7.5c.

Going south after an extended cruise in Alaska waters, the Campbell Church charter yacht Caroline, with Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord of New York and party on board, was here at the first of the week.
