NEWS OF THE MINES

Coal Mines in Central Interior Favorably Reported Upon—Mill on Hazelton Tungsten Property—"Cy" North Is Now Colonel.

A special publication just issued by the British Columbia Department of Mines deals with analyses of British Columbia coals with special reference to deposits of the central interior which are designed as high quality seams. Two deposits on the Telkwa River are classed as anthracite and one as low carbon bituminous. One on the Morice River is bituminous. There are also extensive analyses of coal resources of the Peace River Block of British Columbia. The two producing mines in the Telkwa area are the Telkwa colliery and the Aveling. Tests conducted in 1926 on samples from Telkwa Colliery showed a good grade of coking coal and special tests by the Dominion government in 1929 and 1930 gave a high rating in thermal efficiency. Some other sources of coal in the Bulkley Valley reported upon are not yet in production.

There are reports that the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. is contemplating the construction of a mill on the Red Rose tungsten mine near Hazelton. This would be the seventh silver, lead and zinc mill in the province.

Major C. B. North, for many years prominently identified with mining in Northern British Columbia including the Portland Canal and Alice Arm districts, was promoted some time ago to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He is now with the Canadian contingent at Gibraltar.
