SKEENA RIDING Earlier this week, when Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson visited B.C., he made very clear the basic issues involved in this election campaign --- Canada's shocking rise in unemployment in the years since the Conservatives took office. We in Skeena Riding know this so well. One in every eight workers in B.C. today are out on the street looking for jobs. There's hardly a family that hasn't been touched in some way by this dreadful cancer. It seems a long time ago that a certain Mr. Diefenbaker promised us that no Canadians would suffer from unemployment if he was elected

Prime Minister. We all feel in our hearts for those people who can't find work. But we must remember, too, that unemployment isn't just the concern of the unemployed. We all suffer, we suffer the loss of this man's contribution to Canada. Lulevery day a willing worker unnecessarily loses his job, we all take home a little less money to our families. Unemployment Is wastage of our human resources. And Canada can't afford

In next week's column I'll tell you how the Idberal teum can lick the unemployment problem.
