CEDRIC MAH WAS SCARED

"I was never so scared in my life." This from an ordinary person may not be noteworthy but from Capt. Cedric Mah it is a different story.

Cedric Mah was pilot of a transport plane for two years flying supplies over the Himalayas from India to China during the war. It was he who ordered his crew to jettison everything movable from the plane when it became iced and was losing altitude over the hump and, with everything else, went four hundred and thirty-three million dollars in currency. The crew was prepared to jump but managed to get the plane over safely.

Cedric Mah was on a hunting trip at Francois Lake recently and was wearing a cartridge belt filled with shot gun shells. He was leaning against an electric wall switch when one of the shells exploded harmlessly. It was then that he was never so scared in his life.

Captain Albert Mah, Cedric's brother, was also a pilot and he flew behind the Japanese lines 80 miles from Canton City and carried out his sister to safety.

There are five Mah brothers, all born in Prince Rupert.

Meat Rationing May End Before New Year

OTTAWA, (CP) — Government sources said that an estimate that meat rationing would be abolished before 1947 was possibly correct although it was still too early to say definitely when. The forecast was made at Winnipeg in an interview with Alf Hales of Guelph, chairman of the national division of the Retail Meat Dealers' Association.
