DIMPLES IN FASHION

Hats of Today Modest Compared with Monstrosities of Centuries Ago.

Dimples are now all the rage in Paris and specialists are at work making them in cheeks that are naturally too rounded. Two kinds are supplied to order—weekly dimples that will last only seven days, and permanent dimples. The former are preferred as there is no knowing how long the fashion will last.

Hats of today are modest compared to the monster headdress of a few centuries ago. Marie Antoinette had a passion for extraordinary headdress. One that she invented was forty-five inches in height and was composed of many yards of gauze and ribbon. From the folds sprang branches of roses and the entire edifice was composed of many yards surmounted by a waving plume of white feathers. The Duchess de Chartres, determined to surpass the Queen, designed a headdress two inches higher. It was made up of many plumes waving at the top of a tower. Headdresses were worn representing ships. One wife of an English officer appeared carrying on her head five English line of battle ships, a French frigate and a lugger. An arrangement of silk and gauze represented a harbor.

Barrieau to Box Moore.

Ernie Barrieau and Tom Moore, of Nanaimo, have signed articles for a bout in the Coal City on the night of April 19th. Articles were agreed to yesterday, both fighters agreeing to make 133 pounds five hours before the night.

Burns Ready for Bayley.

Frankie Burns, the clever little San Francisco lightweight, is out with a challenge to Joe Bayley, the Canadian title holder, and Frankie is willing to wager from $500 to $1,000 on his chances with the Victoria boxer, or, in fact, will agree to anything that suits Bayley.
