Unprecedented Activity in Dog Fishing on Islands — Halibut Landings Light

Two hundred fishing vessels of all sizes ranging from small gillnetters to large beam trawlers using both hook and net gears have been engaged during the past summer in taking a great harvest of dogfish off Skidegate Inlet and the east coast of Graham Island on the Queen Charlottes to the west of Prince Rupert. "There has never been anything like it and it has made a bumper year of fishing activity for us," declared Gordon H. Jolliffe, pioneer Queen Charlotte City merchant, on a visit to Prince Rupert while on his way to Vancouver. One example of the profit of the fishing was cited by Mr. Joliffe who told of a small two-man boat receiving $2,500 as a result of catching in a single week 6,000 pounds of livers which sold at 33c per pound. The general headquarters of the dogfishing fleet was at Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate with the Canadian Fishing Co. and the B.C. Packers operating camps while J. H. Carson Co. and the co-operatives shipped to Prince Rupert. Western Chemical of Vancouver had a camp at Sandspit. Towards the end of October there was a falling off in fishing, due to a drop off in the run of fish, fall weather setting in and many of the fishermen being well satisfied with what they had already earned. As for other lines of fishing on the Queen Charlottes this year, Mr. Joliffe reported there had been an exceptionally good run of pink salmon with chums fair while trollers had had as good a season as they had enjoyed in years owing to a fine run of cohoes.

Halibut landings revived slightly from the doldrums this week with three boats bringing in 125,000 pounds. On Saturday the Lois N. arrived with 55,000 pounds, the Sea Ranger brought in 38,000 on Monday, and on Thursday the American boat Ranier arrived with 32,000. During the previous week only one boat arrived with a cargo of 38,000 pounds. Total landings for the season stand at 10,772,000 pounds.

NATURALLY SMALL

The true sardine is not a dwarf fish but the young of the pilchard, a species of herring.

There are about 14,000 individual parts in a light war tank.

CANNERY SOLD ABOVE CEILINGS

VANCOUVER, Oct. 21 — The British Columbia Packers Limited, operating company stores at Bella Bella, Bella Coola and Alert Bay, has been fined for selling various grocery items above the ceiling prices set by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. In respect of the Bella Bella, Bella Coola stores, the company pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs in each case by Magistrate George H. Hill at Ocean Falls. For infractions of the board's regulations at the Alert Bay store, a fine of $150 was imposed. Among the commodities sold above the maximum prices fixed by the board were sardines, salt, tomato juice, grapefruit juice, lard, jam, tea, eggs, coffee, potatoes, onions and numerous other items.

Australian Rabbits Meet War's Demands

CANBERRA, Oct. 22 (AP)—War has brought about the glorification of Australia's national pest—the rabbit. A month ago the Indian government was asking for Australian rabbits to breed as food for the Indian services.

Now New Zealand's International Affairs Minister Parry announces that Australia is releasing 192,000 rabbit traps to enable New Zealand to continue export of frozen rabbit meat to Britain.

Early settlers brought rabbits to Australia from England. Australia has spent millions of dollars trying to get rid of them. They have been hunted with guns, traps, poison bait, ferrets and gas. A trans-continental, supposedly rabbit-proof fence was built from north to south in western Australia years ago. But still the rabbit increased.

Today Australia is almost reconciled to the pest. The animals are entirely free of disease. Rabbit meat is coupon free and even the more select restaurants are now serving rabbit. Export of pelts to the United States is increasing.
