Terrace Church Christmas Tree

TERRACE, Jan. 5— Featured by a concert by the children and a visit from Santa Claus, St. Matthew's Sunday School held its annual Christmas tree. Mrs. Trumper's pupils gave a Christmas tabloid, those taking part being Patsy Poole, Islay McMillan, Margaret Hunter, June and Pearl Sercova, Margaret and Sarah Miles and Bernice Matthews. Tiny Marilyn de Kergommeaux sang a solo "Old St. Nick" as also did Terry Hubble. Mr. Hills' Bible class gave special numbers. Then Santa Claus, in the person of Sergeant Major Beastall, arrived on the scene and gave each of the children a gift and a Christmas stocking filled with candies, nuts, oranges and apples. The happy evening came to a close with prayer and singing of the carol "Silent Night."

Remade Clothes Modelled At Booth School

Girls of Booth Memorial High School witnessed a clever blending of the elements of fashion and economy Thursday afternoon when they attended a display of garments re-made from used clothing in the school auditorium.

The garments, prepared by the consumers branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, were designed to show apparently worn-out garments of one design can be remodeled into another design with striking effect.

Eight senior girls acted as models. They presented smart dresses, suits, jumpers and other creations which had been made over from light overcoats, men's suits and other garments which ordinarily would have been discarded by the unthrifty.

Miss Geraldine Cade, home economics teacher, was in charge of the display, and Nina Youngman, a student, was commentator. The models were Marissa Windle, Bobbie Laird, Solvig Mork, Jacqueline Budinich, Evelyn Waywood, Mary Strachan, Mary Margaret Bulger and Jean Bernard.

MODERATE COLD SNAP PREVAILING; AN ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

A moderate cold snap has prevailed at Terrace during the past two or three weeks. Although the temperatures did not fall below 10 above zero, high wind added severity to the conditions. There has been very little snow and this has followed a rather under-average measurement of rainfall. The result is shown in the several wells which have gone dry in the vicinity. A curious feature which appears to be connected in some way with the weather has been the "black-out" of radio. Until calmer and more cloudy conditions came many local people turned on their dials in vain.
