Hepburn And Tracy Starred

An hilarious comedy feature in which Katherine Hepburn sets out to prove that women are equal to men in everything and Spencer Tracy sets out to stop her, "Adam's Rib" comes to the Capitol Theatre for a three-day engagement starting tonight. The supporting cast includes several Broadway stage favorites including Judy Holliday, Tom Ewell, David Wayne, and Jean Hagen. Poly Moran, a noted comedy star of Marie Dressler's day, is also back in this picture.

Miss Hepburn has the role of a sophisticated New York lady lawyer and Tracy is her husband. A succession of violent quarels has its climax in the husband walking out and it is decided to obtain a divorce. Meeting in the office of their accountant to go over old bills, old memories are revived, pride is forgotten and both come to realize that nothing counts but their love for each other. Then, arm in arm, they leave for the country to celebrate their reconciliation.

The picture is sophisticated comedy drama of high entertainment value, it is said.

New Water Line For Westview

Proposal to instal a six-inch water main in Westview was referred back to the Board of Works committee at a meeting of city council. The council asked for further information following recommendation of the matter.

The six-inch installation, expected to take two to three years, will be on Atlin Avenue from Second Avenue to Seventeenth St. and from the existing six-inch cast iron main west of Seventeenth Street to Vanarsdol Street; on Vanarsdol Street from Atlin to Graham Avenue; on Graham Av- Vanarsdol Street to Fourteenth Street; on Seventeenth Street from Atlin Avenue to Graham Avenue, and to renew existing six-inch main on Fourteenth Street from Second Avenue to Graham Avenue.

The new pipe would replace a lighter pipe which was seriously affected by the cold weather of the past winter and which has been found inadequate, anyway, on account of the increased domestic demand in that section of the city and the new requirements of the Co-operative fish plant.
