TRAGEDY IN RENT CASE

New York Landlord Murders Tenant and Kills Himself

ATLANTA, Georgia (AP)—Vowing he would "show the O.P.A. (Office of Price Administration), a disgruntled landlord last night killed a tenant, wounded the tenant's pregnant wife and killed himself. The police listed it as a case of murder and suicide.

Shortly before the shooting, Detective J. M. Pack reported that the landlord, J. F. Bailey, aged 38, scrawled a note in which he said he was going to "kill Bill Hayes and his wife and show the O.P.A. they can't 'Joe Staling" me around.

". . . And look at all the cows on this side!"

CONVICTIONS ARE UPHELD

Police Court Decisions Against Taxi Drivers Sustained in County Court

Convictions in police court here last April by Magistrate W. D. Vance against three taxi drivers charged with keeping liquor for sale were sustained in decisions made by Judge W. O. Fulton in County Court Friday afternoon.

Judge Fulton's findings upheld the convictions against Sam Julian, Patrick Mazzei and Dominic Montesano and confirmed the $300 fine levied against Julian and a $500 fine against Mazzei.

Montesano, who received a suspended sentence from Magistrate Vance, will not have his sentence re-considered by Judge Fulton until next September when his counsel, Angelo Branca, of Vancouver, will be here to represent him.

The three cases originally came before the police court last April when convictions were obtained. Mr. Branca entered appeals in all three cases and the appeals were heard by Judge Fulton last May 27.

At request of Mr. Branca, no decision was given at that time. He made application to present evidence on behalf of the appellants. However, this application was refused and judgment was entered.

Crown Counsel T. W. Brown, who appeared for the police, argued that the fines levied against Julian and Mazzei should be levied against Montesano, but later on, at request of Mr. Branca, it was agreed that the fines against Mazzei and Julian be imposed against Montesano.

Mr. Branca is able to address the court personally. The Judge granted an adjournment until Mr. Branca is able to be present, which will be September 12.
