CUSTOMS HOUSE OVER 40 YEARS

A reminder of early Prince Rupert, found here recently, is seen in the copy of a memorandum distributed to Collectors of Customs over 40 years ago. It reads: "By Order in Council of 17th of October, 1906. Prince Rupert, in the Province of British Columbia, is establishesd as a Customs Port of Entry and Warehousing Port."

It bears the signature of John McDougald, Commissioner of Customs.

Another memorandum, dated November 7, 1907, announces that the Post Office Collecting Station at Metlakatla will be detached from the port of Victoria and will report to the port of Prince Rupert on and after January 1, 1908.

Another memo, dated June 15, 1910, says Stewart has been established as a Customs Outport and Warehousing Port under the survey of the port of Prince Rupert.

Sport Editorial

MISCONDUCT

MISCONDUCT penalities in hockey have been plentiful lately. This has been particularly true of the Montreal and Detroit series.

Hockey is a grand game, but there is a difference between sport and ordinary brawling.

Fans do not pay cash to watch bludgeoning, bitterness and abuse, on the ice. Whatever trouble there is, it is heard, is rooted in the attitude of inexperienced young teams trying to imitate professionals who set the pace.

The technique is all wrong. It was all wrong with lacrosse once. How much lacrosse is seen in Canada today? There's a reason.
