Three Crack Union Liners in Port—Camosun on Stewart Run

Three flagship liners of Union Steamships Ltd. were in port of Prince Rupert at the same time for everal hours last evening to make a notable marine coincidence. They were the Coquitlam, Camosun and Chilcotin. Coquitlam, Capt. Alex McLellan, sailed at 11 p.m. for Vancouver via Queen Charlotte Islands after having been in port since 4:30 p.m. Monday when she arrived with a passenger list of 60 or more persons including 20 round trippers and native workers from the Islands headed for Skeena River canneries. Camosun, Capt. John Boden, arrived at 7 p.m. from Port Simpson, Alice Arm, Stewart and other northern points and sailed at 8 p.m. in continuation of her voyage to Vancouver on which she was running late after having had heavy freight calls to make on the way up the coast, not getting in here until 1:30 Monday morning northbound. Chilcotin, Capt. Harry McLean, arrived at 4:30 p.m. yesterday from Vancouver, making a special Alaska cruise with a charter party of Shriners from Oakland, California, with whom she sailed later last night for Ketchikan, Juneau, Skagway Sitka and Wrangell whence she is due back here next Tuesday afternoon southbound.

Principal officers of Union steamer Camosun, which has now replaced the steamer Cardena on the Vancouver-Prince Rupert-Stewart route, are Capt. John Boden, master; Fred Matheson, chief engineer; A. W. Robinson, purser, and Bert Atwell, chief steward.

Under terms of the new price pact, sockeye salmon has been boosted to 18 cents per pound from last year's 15 cents. The agreement awarding the increase was signed at the week-end by the Fishermen's Union and the B.C. Canners. Since then, hundreds of fishing boats have started fishing operations.

Ontario election recently was highlighted by sweeping C.C.F. gains in the traditionally Conservative Toronto area. Here victorious William Temple, C.C.F., M.P.P.-elect, who defeated Premier George Drew in High Park riding, waves greetings to well-wishers who gathered outside his committee room. In 1945 election, Mr. Temple came within 400 votes of defeating Mr. Drew.

Reminiscences and Reflections
By W.I.

Abolition of the expression "Dominion Day" has undoubtedly been reconsidered. Earnest reformers were most industrious and persuasive not so many months ago. But, somehow, a majority of Canadians decided to worry along without any change and so, tomorrow, they will salute the same old provinces still doing business at the same old stands.

Said Col. C. W. Peck V.C., speaking at a dinner in Victoria in March 1928:

"As we get more progressive in our thoughts we hope the next war will never be. As long as people think war, there will be war. One is astonished to find so many professional soldiers strong advocates of peace."

What would the doughty Colonel have thought could he have visioned 20 years later with the "next war" already fought and a shattered and jittery world haunted by fears of a third?

Strange Gods journey to New Brunswick and with gentle blandishments would win intimate friendship. The C.C.F. comes a-wooing but New Brunswick, with a look more icy than her storm beaten shores in January, would have none of it.

Away back when Confederation notions were stirring, Canada had a lonely and peaceful west but a wild and woolly east. In the latter regions, they took their politics seriously. One night D'Arcy McGee made a speech in Parliament others didn't like and was shot as dead as a mackerel an hour or so later. Also, during that colorful age, someone called on George Brown, editor of the Toronto Globe, Ontario's Bible, and slew him with an old fashioned pistol. The Globe scored an important "beat"—naturally.

Anyone who had business at the City Hall years ago will recall seeing an elderly man, a shade under the average height, busy with one job after another. You'd catch a glimpse of him in the council room or police court, tidying up or sweeping or climbing or descending the tedious stairs, doing something in the furnace room, or using a hose. One could depend on it, he was always occupied at something or other. He was John Walker Exley, the janitor, known to all the old timers, who came to the end of a long and useful life at his home near Smithers last week. His funeral took place at Smithers yesterday afternoon and three daughters went from here to attend. A ship's carpenter in earlier life, Mr. Exley was aboard the crack liner Empress of Ireland when that vessel made her maiden transAtlantic Voyage from Britain to Canada many years ago. He came to Prince Rupert in the tent days of townsite clearing and engaged in some of the earliest construction work. He had a hand in building Dominion government buildings on Digby Island nearly 40 years ago. Surviving are one son, six daughters, 16 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

EVERYTHING HASN'T RAISED IN PRICE . . .

● It may surprise many but 1847 Rogers Bros. Community Silver flatware is the same price as before the war.

And as the tax is now off it should be doubly attractive.

Bulger's always sell standard goods at Canadian advertised prices even though express charges are more than those of places nearer to the factories.

For instance a Big Ben clock or set of silver sold for the same price as in Ontario where it is made.

A large part of our stock is made up of standard advertised goods and we try to keep the balance in line with the prices of other cities. And we guarantee the satisfaction of our goods.

Something from Bulger's is always something worth having.
