IN NAME OF HUMANITY

Post office clerks in Prince Rupert had more work than usual today because in addition to the regular mail there were 2763 letters taking Christmas Seals to the homes of this city and district.

Postal workers take this cheerfully, however, because after all it was a postman who first started it, and the postal services of the world, which have been proud of the accomplishment, count the launching of the first Christmas Seal sale among their great services to mankind. When the Danish postman, Einar Holboell, initiated the first Christmas Seal sale in 1904 he started a movement for the relief of suffering which would grace the records of any profession.

Rudyard Kipling, paying tribute to the devotion which was needed to get mail delivered to outposts, began his stirring stanzas on the riksk of the job with the words:

"In the name of the Empress of India make way
O lords of the jungle, wherever you roam."

If a paraphrase were wanted for mail carrying the double-barred cross it might well begin "'In the name of humanity," for every nation pays a toll to tuberculosis.

This will be the 44th year in which postmen in some part of the world have shouldered their bags with Christmas Seals on letters and parcels, showing that the fight against tuberculosis was being carried forward. When the Prince Rupert Christmas Seal sale opens today, it will be one of thousands being carried on by communities which have taken this way of paying for local preventative programs. (1t)

Both totem poles at the entrance to the museum on Second Avenue are now in position, the work having been completed Saturday. They are similar in height and add greatly to the attractiveness of the premises.

More than Prince Rupert might look with astonishment as well as resentment on the frequently heard suggestion from highly-placed sources that demolition of wartime installations here will be required, unless disposed of. Perhaps more than any other point on the coast, this city is recognized as of strategic value. And this is far from a peaceful world. Before such an advantage is weakened in the slightest degree, the opinions of others might be of interest.

Reminiscences

By W. J. — and REFLECTIONS

Mr. King becomes unemployed today and, while there are thousands of others who can say the same, there is not the slightest occasion for worry. He is exceptionally well known and highly esteemed and his general knowledge of affairs is believed to be quite unrivalled.

The city election will take place next month and it is not too early now to take a direct and a personal interest in it. Indications point to an active campaign with possibly a dash of new blood. It is good citizenship to show a concern in the town's progress. Have you any pet questions, or ideas? Give them an airing! Write to the paper or the candidates. Any kicks? Trot them out. Anything is better than a studious and silent aloofness.

Sturdy people, healthy country! Gales sweep the landscape, arouse the seas and color the cheek. Snow creeps down the green slopes and rains keep everyone cool and moist. Meanwhile, shapely legs remain bare and heads are content to stay uncovered. Great is B.C.!

When Mrs. W. J. Kirkpatrick, years ago, decided to lend a hand in running Prince Rupert, the electors showed a prompt and a deep interest. Until then, the municipal council had been exclusively male, with occasional growling thrown in. Mrs. Kirkpatrick's arrival had the touch of novelty. She was middle- aged, comfortable looking, gray-haired, and was elected hands down. To her credit, be it said, she made a sensible and efficient alderman. The Kirkpatricks, who now live in Victoria, had their home on Fifth Avenue West near where the G. W. Nickerson residence now stands. They developed an attractive garden, and, indicentally, planted one of Rupert's pioneer apple trees.

Further instructions in badminton were given on Saturday afternoon for the teen age members through co-operation with the adult badminton club. Several of the members were kind enough to assist in instructing the younger enthusiasts.

Badminton was in progress from 2 o'clock in both the main gym and also the auditorium. At 5 o'clock the playing was transferred to the Auditorium only where a tournament was held in the evening. Keen competition was witnessed with Reg Ronald high man of the evening, wining five games. The doubles team of the evening to be successful consisted of Barry Mark and Warren Wilkinson who defeated Dickie Gilker and Billy Watts 15-13. There is still room for more teen age members and it is hoped they will attend Thursday and Saturdays.

DUAL MAYOR? — Charles Cox, veteran political figure around the Lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, may be a dual mayor in 1949. Already mayor of Port Arthur and member of the Ontario Legislature for Fort William, he says he may run for the mayor's chair in Fort William and seek re-election in Port Arthur. (CP Photo)
