BRAVE DEFIANCE TO BRITAIN DELIVERED BY OREGON SENATOR

CLAIMS THAT CANADIAN RAILWAYS ARE BEHIND PROTEST AS TO PANAMA CANAL RATES AND MOVES ABRO- GATION OF BRITISH TREATIES

Washington, April 23.—The Senate was asked by a joint resolution yesterday to abrogate the Hay-Pauncefote and the Clayton-Bulwer treaties. The measure was introduced by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon and was referred to the foreign relations committee.

"If Great Britain is to protest, step by step, against our canal legislation," said Senator Chamberlain today, "then we may as well go at once to the agreement upon which she bases her protests and nullify it."

Senator Chamberlain asserted, without qualification, that the British protest and the bill now before the Senate introduced by Senator Root for the repeal of the exemption clause affecting American coastwise ships are backed by the Canadian trunk lines which have the support of the American transcontinental railroads.

"If the Anglo-manics in this country are continually to plead the cause of Great Britain as against the American side of the question," declared Senator Chamberlain, "I believe it is time they should be given something to think and talk about. That is the reason why I have decided to introduce this resolution. At the same time I am pretty certain the American people will have something to think and talk about."

The Wall Street Journal gives the following figures as to the exodus of settlers from the Western States to Canada during the past few years:

Year	No. of Emigrants.	Total Effects
1908	57,124	$65,806,848
1909	90,996	73,797,758
1910	124,602	132,202,722
1911	131,114	201,784,416
1912	138,880	173,940,000

In seven years immigration from the United States has brought $750,000,000 into Canada, an average of considerably over $100,000,000 yearly.

CANNOT TELL THE SIZE OF MORGAN'S FORTUNE

Heir of Famous Financier Does Not Know Value of Estate Within Many Millions.

New York, April 21.—Interest in the will of J. P. Morgan, made public yesterday, centred today in the question of the value of the financier's estate and in what disposition his son would make of the vast collection of Morgan art treasures. Less than $20,000,000 was accounted for in the specific bequests made by Mr. Morgan, the rest being the residuary portion left to the son without mention of the amount.

Some estimates made today place the total estate as high as $125,000,000, but, according to a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., not even the son himself can tell, within many millions, the actual value of the fortune. Until appraised by the state for the purpose of collecting the inheritance tax, the question will remain open.

J. P. Morgan Jr. declined today to say anything in regard to disposition of art treasures, but it was intimated that he might have a statement some time this week. The treasures were left to the son with the hope that "he will be able in such a manner as he thinks best to make a permanent disposition or dispositions of them or such portions of them as will be a substantial carrying out of the intention which I have cherished to render them permanently available for the pleasure and instruction of the American people."

LATEST DODGE OF THE WHISKY SMUGGLERS

Seven Fine Hogs Each Carrying Thirteen Bottles of Booze in Its Pantry.

The latest and probably the most complete fraudulent method emanating from the mind of the smuggler was that which was discovered by Chief Beytes of the provincial police at Tete Jaune Cache a few weeks ago. Chief Beytes happened across a consignment of fine hogs. While making this inspection he noticed the sack covering which surrounded the dressed porkers. He likewise noticed that the covering on several of the carcasses had been cut and thrown open. This fact set the chief curious and apparently gave him a thought, for he straightway began to take off the covering of one of the carcasses. Hardly had he done so when one bottle of whisky dropped from the carcass. When he had recovered from the surprise he again got to work, and there in each and every carcass he found no less than thirteen one quart bottles of the intoxicant concealed.

It appears that the consignment, which consisted of the seven choice hogs and their contents, had been shipped from Edmonton, and that at Tete Jaune Cache were two partners in the smuggling business. It is assumed that one of the men in an endeavor to defraud his colleague had risen bright and early on the morning of the discovery and had taken the contents of several. Instead of again fastening the sack covering he left the carcass from which he had taken the whisky disposed to view. This led to the discovery of the plot.

This townsite, which is being laid out on Lot 829, about two miles west of the mouth of Stewart River, will be about sixty miles distant from Fort George. Mr. Crawford announces that this subdivision will be carried out according to the latest approved ideas in landscape gardening, with fine driveways, contours, etc. The townsite will have a frontage of one mile on the Nechaco River.

TABLES TURNED ON THE SUFFRAGETTES

British Opinion Shown by Breaking up their Meeting in Hyde Park

London, April 21.—The suffragettes had plenty of evidence yesterday that the public had tired of militancy, and only the protection afforded by a large body of police saved the women from the hands of angry mobs.

At Brighton the suffragettes were chased off the Esplanade and took refuge in a neighboring house. This was surrounded by howling thousands, who bombarded the place with stones and smashed every window.

The Women's Social and Political Union attempted to carry on its propaganda in Hyde Park. Londoners had anticipated that such attempts would be made and twenty thousand persons assembled at that place.

No sooner had a suffragette mounted the box and unfurled the militant flag than the police interfered. There were a few cries of "Free Speech!" and "Are we in Russia?" but these were drowned by hostile yells. Turf and stone were thrown and threatening rushes were made toward the women. A large force of police surrounded them and kept the mob in check.

An infernal machine was discovered yesterday in the doorway of the Yorkshire Herald office at York. The wrappings, inscribed "votes for women," indicated its origin.
