Often in the middle of the night, the Canadian nurse is called to a grass hut to aid an Indian mother at childbirth.

It all began a few years ago when the serious young woman graduated.

"My own desire," said Laurence, "was to do some work in the world that was really needed, to use the knowledge that years of training and study had given to help people who otherwise would have no help."

About that time, she heard that a group of Franciscans from Montreal was going to the Amazon to carry out missionary work and work amongst the lepers. She asked to go along. When the boat in which the party was travelling was wrecked she saved her travellers cheques. Everything else was lost and it was her money that got them finally to Indiana, on the upper reaches of the Amazon, not far south of the equator.

The Franciscans established their chapel and school while Miss Le Fevre set up a small hospital accommodating six and her infirmary.

"I had a lot to learn," she admits. "When I was called to my first maternity case in the middle of the night, I carefully sterilized my instruments, myself first. Then, while I was working on the mother, I felt something splashing on me and my patient. I looked up, it was droppings from chickens roosting in the rafters. A lot of good my sterilizing was."

Breakfast Club Hears Report On 'Frisco Meet

A report on a recent international conference in San Francisco highlighted Saturday's meeting of the Prince Rupert Credit Women's Breakfast Club at the Broadway Cafe.

President Mrs. Catherine Laurie, who, with Mrs. M. Turner, attended the San Francisco conference, gave the report on the highlights of the interesting affair and souvenirs and programs of the events they had attended decorated the breakfast table.

PLAN SALE

The Saturday meeting also saw plans made for a rummage sale to be staged here August 28, and welcome of a guest, Mrs. Ella Stewart, and of a former member, Mrs. Mary MacLeod, who has been absent for several months.

Educational Chairman Mildred Olson reminded members that study meetings would be resumed the third week in September and asked for a good attendance.

A birthday corsage and good wishes went to Mrs. Evelyn Smith, and the monthly prize, donated by Mrs. C. Sauer was won by Mrs. Mary Turner, and a special prize by Mrs. Stewart.

Free And Easy Slogan For All In Style World

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Adele Simpson bases her fall fashion campaign on a platform of freedom: Freedom from restraint, freedom from fussiness and fredom from alterations.

Previewing her fall collection for the international fashion press, this diminutive mogul of high style introduced a number of new and easy silhouettes most prophetic of which probably was her new semi-fitted suit, carefully shaped to give a smooth, supple line, but allowing the wearer room to take a deep breath without popping a button.

Jackets of these new suits are fitted in front, straight in back, and sometimes have a half belt at the jacket hem in back Skirts are slim, but with room for easy walking. Collars are wide and often open. Colors start with the basic greys and browns and include a rainbow of vivid colors.

The "princess back" silhouette is another new note in the Simpson fall line-up, being shown in afternoon and cocktail gowns, featuring a waistline dipped in back, with side skirt fullness.

"CENSORED NECKLINE"

Parnis accents "the shape" in a collection notable for beauty of line and richness of fabrics. She introduces the "censored neckline," advises women not to look "over-dressed by mistake" and highlights a series of "triple alliance" costumes. They consist of matching jumper, blouse and jacket which look like a one-piece dress but become almost a complete wardrobe with the "off again, on again" jacket technique.

Nettie Rosenstein, high priestess of the "little black dress," endorses the bloused, youthful silhouette for fall, shows hemlines slightly shorter. Skirts are uniformly narrow except for after-five wear. Her suits feature short belted bloused jackets, often fitted in front, matching blouses, and a variation in the form of a straight box jacket worn without a belt.

Low, wide necklines are shown on dresses for afternoon or cocktail wear, with the decolletage often made more startling by an almost invisible fill-in of skin-color chiffon or tulle.

WELCOME ADDITION to any wardrobe is this nutmeg brown sheath dress. Designed in feather-weight wool it is suitable for wear from early autumn through winter. The surplice wrapped bodice with winged collar, fold-over shoulder line and turn-back cuffed sleeves balances the side-button wrapped effect of the slim skirt.

Guatemalan Finds Cost of Living High in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—"I'll say one thing," said the small, dark-eyed Guatemalan secretary, "although there is much political unrest in my country, the cost of living is about three times cheaper than in Montreal."

Mrs. Marlethe Alzamora, who has been living here two years with her two young daughters, said in an interview that food in Guatemala is much cheaper and "we don't have any heating problems, either."

"A thick sirloin steak in Guatemala costs 25 cents a pound," she said. "And, because of the low prices, we always have meat for lunch as well as for dinner."

SERVANTS CHEAPER

On the question of help, Mrs. Alzamora said "servants in Guatemala are cheap. A good cook is paid $25 a month. But... few servants know how to handle electrical appliances.

"In spite of all this," Mrs. Alzamora added, "I like living in Montreal very much."

Jerstad Rites This Afternoon

Funeral service was scheduled for this afternoon for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jerstad, 752 Taylor Street, who died Friday in Prince Rupert General Hospital.

The Rev. Canon Basil S. Brockter was to conduct the service at Grenville Court Chapel, followed by burial at Fairview Cemetery.

Annunciation Church Scene Of Yzerman-Richards Rites

The Church of the Annunciation was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony Tuesday morning when Donna Lorraine Richards became the bride of Rene Yzerman.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Richards of Prince Rupert and the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Yzerman of North Vancouver, B.C.

Baskets of gladioli and stocks banked the altar of the church for the lovely wedding in which the bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a gown of white French lace and net, featuring moulded bodice with lily point sleeves. She wore a chapel veil of net studded with silver sequins and carried a cascade bouquet of pink frill roses and stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS

The pastel gowns of her three attendants formed a pretty foil for the bride's white ensemble.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Magner, cousin of the bride, bridesmaid, Miss Lenore Faught and flower girl, Miss Roberta Rossi. Mrs. Magner and Miss Faught wore identically styled ballerina gowns of net over satin with matching stoles, in pink and blue respectively, while the dainty flower girl was in fluffy yellow organdy. All wore wide picture hats en tone, and carried sprays of white carnations.

Groomsman was Mr. Carl Yzerman, the groom's brother, and ushers were Mr. Charles Magner and Mr. Verne Hurley. Mrs. Yvonne Schaeffer was soloist and Mr. Charles Balagno organist for the ceremony.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, the bridal party enjoyed a wedding luncheon at the home of the bride's parents, and in the evening, a large reception was held in the Elk's Hall, with the bride's mother and Mrs. Edward Smith assisting in receiving the more than 200 guests.

Mrs. Richards chose for the occasion a gown of grey with red trim and accessories of white, with corsage of red carnations.

Mrs. Smith wore a dress of black lace over raspberry red taffeta with black accessories and corsage of white carnations.

A hand-made lace cloth covered the bride's table which held a three-tier cake flanked by pink tapers. Mr. Harley Lewis was master of ceremonies for the affair, at which several congratulatory telegrams from many points were read.

Mrs. E. Olson cut and served the wedding cake, and other serviteurs were Mrs. Verne Hurley, Mrs. Glen Olson, Miss Ila Hague, Miss Nettie Dregier, Miss Ada Berardi and Miss Sharon Bury. A high point of the evening was presentation of her bouquet by the bride to her grandmother, Mrs. G. Decino.

Out-of-town guests attending included Mrs. D. Gurvich of Vancouver, Mrs. J. Hansen of Bellingham, Wash., Miss Diane Miller of Port McNeill and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Richards and son of Vancouver.
