Booth Memorial High school told the board that there was the usual number of students wishing to leave school to go to work. However, he said, it was the policy of the school that if students did so they would not receive the grading to which they were entitled. Senior students could leave school when they had completed their exams but had to return on June 23 to pick up their reports.

Mr. Davidson was told that the industrial arts class could dismantle the old boilers in the school and use them for scrap, as the boilers apparently had no sale value.

The board approved a motion that R. G. Stewart, hired by the board from United Kingdom teachers, be offered the position as permanent relief teacher in the elementary schools. The board agreed that it should have one relief teacher for the principals and that he should be a strong teacher.

The board confirmed the appointment of Joseph Cloutier as the board's maintenance man for city schools.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of longtime school board trustee Mrs. L. M. Greene, who is leaving the city shortly when she accompanies her husband Dr. Greene, to Durham, North Carolina.

Also accepted by the board with regret were the resignations of the following teachers: Mrs. K. Stone; Mrs. Y. Calderwood; Mr. M. Bevage; Mrs. B. McBroom; Mrs. P. Eidsvik; Dr. D. Venturi; Miss F. Duggan, Mrs. M. Robinson; Miss K. Baker; Miss J. Hawkinson; Mrs. A. Peterson.

The following appointments to District 52 school district roll were confirmed: Miss Bernice Dyer, Miss Jean Bowyer, Miss Zo Brown, Miss Lorna Chambers, Leon Mendoza, Miss Lorna Melvin, Jacob Geddert, Leonard Leighton, and Miss Nancy Hopkins.

Extra Money For Vacation Can Be Saved By Sewing

Whirl off to the woods and away for a carefree vacation with extra money to spend from the dollars saved by sewing this dashing holiday wardrobe to meet all your travel and recreation needs from two Prominent Designer Patterns A.542 and M.247.

The wardrobe magic you see here was worked out from an Alan Phillips and a Brigance couture pattern by Singer Sewing Centre experts who suggest that the dress and jacket will do elegant double duty for travel or evening glamor. They chose the three-piece blouse, skirt and shorts as ideal for daytime sports, boating or beach wear.

The secret of creating the dress and jacket ensemble to serve different purposes is to choose a moderately dressy fabric with enough body to stand up to travel and soft enough to drape in the feminine folds at the wide-away neckline. The little jacket repeats the bow motif and gentle gathers at the center back. You can learn how to use the gathering foot for shirred affects like this in your local sewing center.

Focal point in the three-piece casual outfit say the experts is the saucy tie neckline that points up the curving yoke of the blouse. Wear blouse in or out of shorts, and mix-match cotton prints or stripes and plain to suit your taste. Sewing details in both patterns say the experts are straightforward and easy.

Pattern A.542 for the dress and jacket is available in Misses Size 10, 12, 14, 16, and 18. Size 16 dress requires 3 yards 39-inch fabric.

Pattern M.247 for three-piece wardrobe is available in Misses Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, and 18. Size 16 blouse requires 3¼ yards 35-inch fabric; skirt 3⅞ yards, shorts 1¼ yards.

EUROPEAN UNDIES REFLECT DIFFERENCE IN COMMUNISM

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — One of the biggest differences between Tito communism and Khrushchev's brand is reflected in state-produced panties.

In Russia, the first country in modern times to nationalize underwear, they are long in the leg, elastic at top and bottom. They come in only two colors — blue and purple.

But down here in the Silvovoitz country, panties are on sale in many styles, and in colors as varied as the rainbow.

From Split, on the Dalmatian coast, to Ljubljana, in soft, rolling Slovenia, you see them in stores in green, yellow, pink, black and flesh shades.

Such objects of feminine under-styling as girdles and garter belts are as hard to find in red Russia as millionaire bankers, but down here they are as common as plums.

Russian slips, which are short and have no more styling than a stove pipe, are plentiful, because the Soviets don't make night-gowns, slips are often worn instead.

Lack of familiarity with flimsy nightgowns once led to a major social blunder in the U.S.S.R. Three wives of generals, whose husbands had deliberated an armful of nighties in Berlin, wore them to a Red Army reception thinking they were evening dresses.

As the visiting party left, the Brownies gave the "Grand Howl" Mrs. M. B. Lemon who is in charge of this Pack said it is most rewarding to work with these children.

A meeting with the First and ciation school hall followed with Third Brownie Pack; at Annun- Miss Nicholls showing Brownies the latest phases of Brownie work demontrating how games could be made of work.

Following a dinner at the Broadway where Miss Nicholls was the guest of Guiders, a pack leader training session was held at the home of Mrs. George Cook where an informal discussion was held by LA members and city Guiders.

Miss Nicholls impressed upon the group that Brownie work should always be fun.

"No one can have too much fun in this life," Miss Nicholls said.

PRINCE RUPERT SHRINE CLUB

The Prince Rupert Shrine Club, having found themselves indebted to a great number of good citizens for their generous and kind assistance during our recent Ceremonial, wish to avail themselves of this medium to express their deep appreciation and thanks to all who contributed in any way.

We deeply regret that the inclement weather prohibited us from holding a Ceremonial Parade, which we feel sure would have been greatly enjoyed by all. It may be of interest to note, that by your assistance we were enabled to initiate sixty-seven new Nobles, who have dedicated themselves to the furtherance of the humanitarian work, that is the primary objective of Shrinedom.
