Oil Firm Still Seeks U.S. Market

VICTORIA (CP)—Officials of the West Coast Transmission Company, still hopeful of finding a market across the border for B.C. natural gas, asserted here that supplies of the fuel in the United States are running out.

D. P. McDonald, vice-president and legal counsel, and Charles Hetherington, vice-president in charge of engineering, said their company is now negotiating for a new market.

They gave no further details but did not deny reports they were attempting to export gas to California.

The U. S. Federal Power Commision recently rejected a West-coast application to pipe Peace River gas to the Pacific Northwest states.

THERE'S A BOY INSIDE—Inside the bulky para-rescue suit being adjusted by two U.S. Air Force men is nine-year-old Mike Martin, who wants to be a pilot for his country when he grows up. Mike, an orphan who lives at the Boys and Girls Aid Society in Altedena, Calif., appeared on the Betty White television show because of his wish for his future. Airman 1/C Robert C. Brownley (left) and M/Sgt. Charles M. Hines dressed the boy in the suit at March Air Force Base, where he was treated to a full day of air force life.
