Prefabricated Spawning Beds Being Studied

NANAIMO, B.C. (—Reduction of salmon egg losses in British Columbia spawning beds is the aim of scientists at the Pacific biological station near here.

Field tests on a strip of the Fraser river resulted in reducing mortality rate to 35 per cent from an average of 90 per cent, scientist Percy Wickett reported.

Ability of water to flow through gravel and provide oxygen to eggs while removing noxious substances from egg clusters is under close study.

ARTIFICIAL BEDS

The findings are expected to disclose the type of gravel best suited to spawning beds and may lead to creation of artificial spawning beds in streams, Mr. Wickett said.

Two upright tubes in the biological station contain chum salmon eggs. A mere trickle drips into one tube, insufficient to filter through the mass of eggs, which are killed by ammonia poisoning.

Faster flow in the adjoining tube keeps them in a healthy state.

Mr. Pickett said the day may come when bulldozers will prepare spawning beds with specified gravel on a gradient sufficient to provide a pre-determined flow of water through the gravel.

Letter Dumped In Duke's Lap Despite Police

IBADAN, Nigeria (Reuters)—A khaki-clad Nigerian today broke through police lines, raced to the royal car and thrust an envelope into the lap of the Duke of Edinburgh as he and Queen Elizabeth were being driven away from a hospital they had visited.

The incident was seen by hundreds of nurses and other spectators who were cheering the royal couple after they had inspected the University College Teaching Hospital as part of a tour of Nigerian educational institutions.

Michael Tayo, 39, was arrested immediately by police, who said he had petitioned against his dismissal a year ago from his job an an electrician working on the construction of the hospital. He was later released.

A British officer in the Nigerian police said afterward: "It might have been a bomb. We'll have to tighten things up after this."

Women, Children Flee Bush Fire

PERTH, Australia (— Two hundred women and children on vacation near here dashed into the sea to escape from a bush fire.

The fire jumped a break at Garden Island and descended on 33 holiday cottages. Women and children were ordered into the water. The men grabbed wet bags and buckets of water. They stopped the fire a few feet from the cottages, saving all but one.

FROZEN FISH

OSLO (— Norway's exports of frozen fish and fish products in 1955 have been valued at about $9,200,000. The total included 16,500 tons of frozen fillets and 5,250 tons of frozen tuna.

Many Southern Colleges Admit Colored Students

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negroes are peacefully breaking color barriers at formerly all-white colleges and universities in many southern states, in sharp contrast to the bitter demonstrations which greeted a Negro woman's attempt to attend the University of Alabama.

Eight southern states have accepted Negroes in both graduate and undergraduate divisions, an Associated Press survey shows. No violence attended these changes which upset patterns which had stood for generations.

Last week's campus riots which moved the Alabama trustees to suspend Miss Autherine Lucy marked the first attempt to end racial separation in a bloc of four states which seem most determined to preserve their historic system of segregation. The others are Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi.

A federal court order had directed Alabama University admit Miss Lucy. She now has returned to federal court seeking readmittance. A hearing has been set for Feb. 29.

NO VIOLENCE

Arkansas admitted a Negro to its university law school in 1948. There was no incident. Hundreds have followed quietly.

Other southern states with Negro students ranging from a handful to hundreds include Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana. In none of these states has there been any violence. Many of the Negroes live in campus dormitories and most eat in school cafeterias with the white students. A few have been admitted into professional fraternities, but there is little uogial mingling.

Most of the schools which have admitted Negroes, either voluntarily or under court order, give no exact figures available on the number of non-white students. Estimates range from 500 to more than 1,000 in the eight states which practise integration at the college level.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

Integration is working both ways in Tennessee. There are 52 Negroes in six white colleges and universities there, and 14 white students at Fisk University at Nashville, a Negro school.

Except at Fisk, dormitories and cafeterias are operated on a segregated basis. Most of the Negro students live at home.

Negroes have been permitted in the University of Kentucky's graduate school since 1949 and at the University of Louisville since 1951. Kentucky admitted Negro undergraduates in 1954.

State-supported colleges began opening their doors to Negroes in Texas after the Heman Sweatt a Houston mail carrier, carried his fight to gain admittance to the University of Texas to the U.S. Supreme Court, and won. But he left the university two years later "because of scholastic difficulties."

NO DECISION ON DATE

Texas has admitted numerous Negroes for graduate work and is scheduled to enroll Negro undergraduates next fall.

Louisiana State University has about 120 Negroes in its graduate schools and there are about 160 undergraduate Negroes in three other colleges in the university system.

Virginia has several Negroes in its state universities. Negroes were admitted as undergraduates at the University of Virginia for the first time this year. They eat in the university cafeteria and live in dormitories, but not with white students.

The Florida Supreme Court has ruled that Negroes may be admitted to white universities but has not yet decided when its decision should become effective.

South Carolina has no Negroes in its white schools. The same is true of Mississippi.

In Georgia, Horace Ward of Atlanta has been trying since 1950 to enter the Georgia University School of Law. His case is still pending in U.S. district court.
