Remember when..

By The Canadian Press

Walter Hagen won the Canadian Open golf title 24 years ago by defeating Percy Alliss, long-driving British veteran. In a 36-hole playoff, Alliss had finished the regulation 72 holes with the same 292 total as Hagen, a four-time winner of the British Open and twice champion in the United States Open.

Channel Always Obstacle Toronto Swimmer Claims

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FOLKESTONE, Kent, England (AP)—In the next few weeks, a friendly young Toronto girl hopes to slip into the cold English channel, bound for France the hard way.

Why?

"Well," says 17-year-old Marilyn Bell, who could retire famous after having conquered Lake Ontario last year, "the channel has always been the big thing for long-distance swimmers. I've always wanted to try it."

Relaxed and in good spirits, the teen-ager sat looking from her hotel room at the deceptively-placid water, mist-covered despite a strong sun and dotted with anglers' rowboats riding small waves.

She's a year older and four pounds heavier—she weighs 122—than when she won her day-and-night fight across Lake Ontario last year. She looked confident and well, despite contracting a throat infection a week ago which has interrupted training plans and possibly postponed a channel attempt. She hopes to resume training Wednesday.

At the same time last week, American swimmer Florence Chadwick was fretting at Dover, held up by fog.

WAIT FOR BETTER TIDES

The next possible jumping off dates are around July 27-28 and Aug. 10-16 when the tides will be most suitable.

"We will work slowly into it again," said Gus Ryder, her stocky coach. "Marilyn was up to some swims of six or more hours—then we drop back and work up to another longer spell—but we'll save up for the big effort."

She has covered an estimated 60 miles since starting training last month, much of it through cold, choppy water typical of what she may face.

"A choppy sea is a tough thing to swim in because it gets into your mouth, and slaps you," says Ryder. "A swell is no trouble because you can judge it.

'It is possible that we wouldn't have trained so much in the last 10 days any way because of the warm weather and the mist. Then there have been a lot of jelly fish brought in by the warmer water. I got a sting myself on my cheek."

CAMERA FAVORITE — Movie actress Cyd Charisse, clad in leopard-skin bathing suit, was named by 2,500 male photography fans touring Meramec Caverns, Stanton, Mo., as "The Formation They'd Most Like to Develop Underground."

MIGHTY HUNTERS

The Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands captured more fur seals, otters and sea-lions than any other coastal tribe.

Beaverbrook Buys Famous Painting

FREDERICTON (AP)—Sir Joshua Reynolds' double portrait of Mrs. Henry Thrale and her daughter will be displayed in the art gallery donated to the New Brunswick capital by Lord Beaverbrook.

It was announced here that the work, painted in 1781 had been purchased by the Canadian-born peer from a New York art dealer for $26,000.

The Reynolds' portrait has been exhibited extensively while in the possession of such owners as Lady Ashburton and Mrs. Hamilton McKown Twombly of New York.

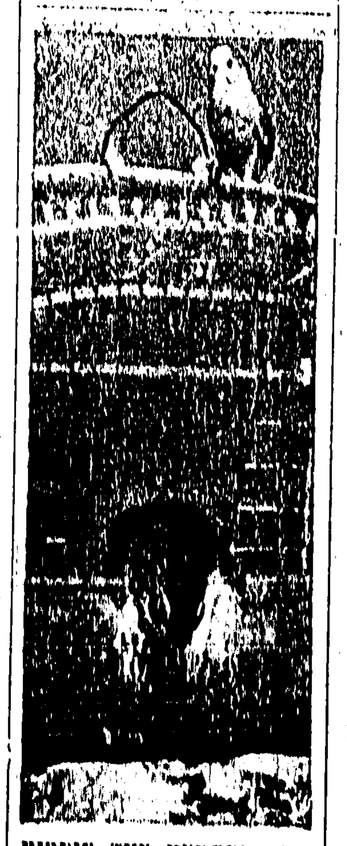
Wife of a wealthy British brewer, Mrs. Thrale was a close friend of lexicographer Samuel Johnson who spent 15 years in the Thrale home.

NOISY NIGHTS

GOSPORT, England (AP) — Mothers in this Hampshire town have asked municipal officials to bar fun fairs, or carnivals, because their children don't get to sleep at the usual hour when one is in town.



BIRDIE THE BUDGIE grips the top of his cage and casts a suspicious eye at Squeekie, a baby squirrel that threatens to move him out of his home in Winnipeg. The squirrel, owned by Jimmy MacKay, not only invades Birdie's cage but also eats the bird's food. All this does not happen without protest from Birdie who has tangled with the new pet several times.
