No Sign Found Of Lost Seiner

VANCOUVER (AP)—Search boats and aircraft Monday night called off a search for a mystery fishing boat reported grounded off Vancouver Island.

The boat was seen Sunday tipped over at an angle of 45 degrees on Pearl rocks, about 220 miles north of here, but no vessel has been reported overdue or lost.

The tanker Imperial Namu reached the area early Monday, but didn't sight the boat.

"We have given up. There is nothing we can do unless some other fishing boat finds any wreckage," officials said.

All seiners believed in the area Sunday are being checked in an attempt to identify the craft.

An RCMP launch was turned back by heavy seas when she attempted to reach the fishboat.

The Vancouver tug Mogul spotted the boat Sunday night and said she appeared to be a 100-foot seiner. Crew members said they saw a light moving near by.

An RCAF Canso reached the area Monday, but no trace of the vessel was found.

NOT SO NEW

The first successful rayon manufacturing plant was started in France in 1891.

Boats Seeking Missing Couple

KITIMAT (AP)—Seven boats in the Kitimat area were searching Monday for Mr. and Mrs. James Stretton, missing since early Sunday on a fishing trip in Douglas channel in a 16-foot power boat. Mr. Strettn is a development engineer for the Alcan project.

Creative Writing Scholarships Made Available

VANCOUVER — Four tuition scholarships, totalling $240, have been made available for students of the Summer School of Creative Writing through a grant from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation, the University of B.C. announced today.

Creative Writing is one of the many courses being offered by the University's Summer School of the Arts, July 3 to Aug. 17. The course includes Poetry, Fiction and Playwriting lectures, workshops and seminars.

The scholarships, each valued at $60, will be awarded as follows: two for students studying poetry and two for those studying fiction writing.

Those who have already applied for admission to the Summer School of Creative Writing will be automatically considered for these scholarships without further application.

Application forms and brochures may be obtained by writing to the Director, Summer School of Creative Writing, University of B.C., Vancouver 8. Applications should be returned with a representative sample of writing to the Director of the School on or before June 30.

Melvin Walker La Follette of UBC's English department is director of the School. Lister Sinclair, well-known writer, playwright and lecturer, will be the principal lecturer and James B. Hall, professor of English, University of Oregon, will be the special lecturer.
