Muzzy's Bifocals Gain Their Share of Honors

This is another hand from the match between the team of Champion, Dale, Muzzy and Mrs. Keen against the team from Uptown Club, whose members were named (by the sheerest coincidence) North, East South and West.

In yesterday's column Mr. Champion told about the first time this deal was played. He was declarer at four hearts in the East position and made it by refusing to take the finesse against the king of trumps.

NOT A CHANCE

"Muzzy and I defended against the same contract, four hearts," said Mr. Dale, "but the way Muzzy defended, Mr. East didn't have a chance to make it."

"Well, then, East didn't play it right," remarked Mr. Champion, "because it's cold against any defense."

"Not against Muzzy's defense," said Mr. Dale, laughing. "And the way play came up, I think you or any thoughtful player would have done the same thing Mr. East did. Here's what happened.

"Muzzy thought long and hard about his opening lead. He was squinting and seemed to be having trouble with his bifocals. Finally he reached for what he thought was the eight of spades—and out came the four of hearts."

NO PROBLEM

"But with that lead there's no problem at all to the hand," commented Mrs. Keen.

"Now wait a minute," continued Mr. Dale. "You've got to think this thing out and try to visualize how this lead looked to Mr. East. Remember, he couldn't see all the cards the way you can now. He had no way of knowing that Muzzy had led from the king doubleton of hearts.

"He planned to set up a cross-ruff, just as you did, Champion, and after winning the first trick with the ten of hearts he led his lone club.

"I won this," the old master continued, "and returned a heart. At this point there was only one heart unaccounted for — the king. If Muzzy had it, then he had led from the king doubleton and certainly nobody could make such a fantastic, suicidal lead.

"You can hardly blame East for taking the finesse which, of course, lost to Muzzy. Now, with only two trumps left on the board, East could ruff only two of his small diamonds and there was no way to prevent us from winning a trick in each suit for down one."

Mr. Champion spared one of his rare smiles. "Looks like we've got a five-man team," he said, "the four of us and Muzzy's bifocals."

Kremlin's Anti-Stalin Drive Splits Italian Left-Wingers

ROME, (Reuters) — Italy's major left wing parties are divided by a deeper rift than at any other time since the Second World War following the bitter attack of Socialist leader Pietro Nenni on Russia's Communist party chief in Nikita Khrushchev and the Soviet political structure.

In a 5,000-word article published by the official Socialist party newspaper Saturday, Nenni, Stalin peace prize winner, pledged his party to try to bring about socialism in Italy only "with the consent of the majority of the people."

In a scathing examination of Khrushchev's report to the 20th Soviet party congress in Moscow, he wrote:

"It was known that the dictatorship of the proletariat had changed into the dictatorship of the Communist party.

"Now we learn that the dictatorship of the Communist party became the personal dictatorship of Stalin. But we are not told how or why that came about.

"We do not even know how the present Soviet ruling group reached its conclusion, whether it is unanimous on the subject or divided—and, if divided, on what and why?"
