Only the taste is old-fashiomed!

Many homemakers are rediscovering the delicious flavor that once made Grandma's baking the talk of the town. CO-OP flour is high in gluten—the gluey protein that holds your dough together and can give a light, fluffy texture to your baking. The more you work with CO-OP flour—the more you develop this gluten content! Use CO-OP flour the next time you bake. It's available only at your Co-op!

CO-OP flour is pre-sifted! Many homemakers have used CO-OP flour for years without sifting it. However, any flour tends to "settle" once it is packaged. Home sifting helps to fluff it up and ensure evenness.
