MIGHTY MITE — Getting all set to breeze around the block in Decatur, Ga., in their sleek midget racer, Dinah (left), 4, and Lana McDaniel, 6, wait for the proper purr of the motor before zoomin' off. Powered by a lawn mower engine and outfitted with leather upholstery, the tiny runabout took three months of tinkering before it was completed. Built on a quarter scale to a real midget racing car the mobile midget has a top speed of 28 m.p.h.

MILLIONAIRE SHIPOWNER PLANS FREIGHTER OF 100,000 TONS

PARIS (Reuters)—Millionaire shipowner Aristotle Onassis is planning an oil tanker of 100,000 tons dead weight—about twice as big as the present world's largest—to be built in the United States together with two other large tanker vessels, a spokesman for his shipping concern said here today.

Negotiations are going on in New York this week with the U. S. marine administration for orders to be placed in American yards, he said.

The two smaller craft will be of 46,000 and 32,000 tons dead weight.

No further details of the proposed 100,000-ton vessel were available here.

The spokesman said it had not yet reached the drawing board stage, and it was therefore impossible to say what its gross tonnage would be, to permit a comparison with ocean-going passenger lines.

"That's quite a hairpin turn down the road."
