Francois Lake News

FRANCOIS LAKE—On Saturday morning cars coming from across the lake had snow on them, and there is snow on Uncha Mountain this morning, across the lake. Looks rather wintery, but we still have sweetpeas in our front garden.

There was a large gathering of folk from every direction at the turkey shoot at Bill Harrison's farm on Sunday afternoon. Besides turkeys there were ducks and geese to shoot for.

Mumps and measles and bad colds are really running riot across the lake at Southbank and other communities.

On Sunday afternoon Edwin Loveng left Bill Anderson's, 20 miles down the lake, in his 45 ft. river boat the "Cleopatra" with a 16 h.p. outboard engine for power. On board he had a piano which the Anderson family were not using, and Edwin was anxious to have it so that his little girls could learn to play. He had it covered with a tarpaulin and roped as securely as possible. The trip takes about two hours, and it was dark when he got as far as the Mill Bay, two miles east of here, as he had a head wind. He realized that it would not be safe to come further so beached the boat on the shore and walked about all night long, it being too cold to sleep and he had no blankets. He had to watch the boat in case she tipped too far over and let the piano fall on one side. At 7 a.m. he managed to push off and came in and had breakfast with us, and at about noon he was able to set off across the lake on his way back home to Grassy Plains. After all this trouble let us hope that the little girls settle down and learn to play and make their father's hazardous trip worth while.

Fairy Tale To Be Presented On Stage Here

One week from today Grimm's famous fairy tale "Hansel and Gretel" comes to life in Prince Rupert.

Adapted for the stage by Madge Miller, the Vancouver Holiday Theatre will give two performances in the Civic Centre auditorium at 3:30 p.m. for children and 8 p.m. for adults and children.

Slogan of the group "When you go to a play, everyday is a Holiday," should prove itself, as eight adult professional actors and actresses bring to life the magic of this fantasy, filled with adventure, suspense and entertainment to please both young and old.

Stoney Risk, well known in Prince Rupert, directed the 1954 productions in Vancouver which received outstanding press notices.

The group has already this year made a successful tour through the southern interior of British Columbia. The production is sponsored here by the Parent-Teacher council and the Civic Centre association.

Museum Briefs

By JOCELYN BOLTON

We have been fortunate again this week to have been given further exhibits, some gifts and others loans. Mrs. B. B. Milnes has loaned us two very fine argillite totem poles, plus two silver bracelets. We now have a special case in the main part of the museum for our Argillite (slate) poles and our silver.

Col. S. D. Johnston donated some very old coins, used by Mr. Cunningham many years ago, they have "Skeena, B.C." later known as Woodcock Landing, where Inverness Cannery is now located. Some of the tokens have an "H" on them and were used in the Hazelton post of R. Cunningham & Son. C. W. Dixon has also given us a very fine Elk head for our wild life section.

Joseph Stace-Smith paid us a visit, and he hopes to get a martin for us on his trap line.

We have had quite a number of visitors during the week, and last week Miss Mary Pack was a guest. She was interested in ideas for her arthritic patients and went away with "Soogwills" and quite a number of ideas she hopes to put into her work. She said trying to think of new ideas for her crippled patients is a constant worry and she is always searching for something different.

We have had guests from Kitimat, Toronto, Queen Charlotte Islands, Kamloops, Penticton, Rossland and Vancouver.

On Sunday J. B. Scott opened the Museum and conducted William Reid of CBC and W. C. Hankinson of CFPR radio station, around the Museum.
