Political Heads Urge Pearson Not To Bypass Israel On Tour

Snub Seen Danger To Eastern Crisis

VANCOUVER (CP)—National leaders of two political parties have warned External Affairs Minister Pearson not to snub Israel in the course of his world tour.

M. J. Coldwell of the CCF and Solon Low of the Social Credit said Friday Mr. Pearson's decision to visit Egypt and bypass Israel might have serious consequences at this time.

Here for meetings with supporters in this province, they made their statements as news was received of a new border crisis between Israel and Egypt.

Mr. Coldwell said in a press release Mr. Pearson should extend his visit to include Israel.

Mr. Low termed the visit to Cairo a "serious mistake" if the same courtesy were not paid to Israel.

External affairs officials in Ottawa declined to comment on the statements. A spokesman said Mr. Pearson is scheduled to pay a short visit to Egypt Nov. 11 or 12 but as far as is known, he has no plans to visit Israel.

DISTURBING NEWS

News from the Middle East is "very disturbing," Mr. Coldwell said. "I trust the Canadian government will do everything within its power to assist other nations in preventing an outbreak of hostilities in that area."

Mr. Low made his original remarks at a press conference and expanded them later at the University of B.C. Social Credit Club.

"The hot spots in the Middle East are explosive and dangerous and if care is not taken a spark could set off a third world war."

Both Russia and Czechoslovakia have been selling arms to the Arab countries and "the fine hands of Communist agitators have been evident for several years."

The Arab-Israeli conflict holds a threat to world security, Mr. Low said, and immediate steps should be taken to wipe out the main causes of friction. He said his party feels it is not possible "to depend on the United Nations as an effective agent in putting down aggression. It's purpose is a 'world forum'."

Border Violations Charged

Israel, Egypt Exchange Blame

JERUSALEM (AP)— Israel and Egypt today exchanged charges of new troop violations of the tense El Auja demilitarized border zone, which United Nations truce officials strove to neutralize a month ago.

Israeli officials here said two companies of Egyptian troops, totalling about 300 men, penetrated Israeli territory about 45 miles south of Gaza, Friday. The Israelis said they set up an outpost in the zone in retaliation for the alleged Egyptian incursion.

Egyptian officials in Cairo claimed the Israeli troops had reoccupied a position in the zone, partly on Egyptian territory which they had evacuated last month on orders from Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of UN truce observers.

An Egyptian spokesman said the Israelis had fortified the position and surrounded it with barbed wire, he added.

"Troops of this Israeli force were seen moving about in police uniforms, the latest Israeli way of tricking the world into believing their units in El Auja are not a regular army force."

The latest reported penetrations came less than 24 hours after Israeli raiders destroyed an Egyptian camel corps camp across the Egyptian border at Kuntilla south of El Auja.

Lodging House By-Law To Be Fully Enforced

Rooming houses, dumping of garbage and rats formed the major topics of discussion yesterday afternoon when the Union Board of Health of Prince Rupert held its first official quarterly meeting since the arrival of the new medical health officer, Dr. W. B. Laing.

A recent meeting was held by Dr. Laing to review the last year's activities of the Skeena Health Unit.

At yesterday's meeting Alderman Kay Smith was unanimously elected as the board's chairman.

Dr. Laing told the meeting that he had received at least 18 applications for the renewal of trade licences of city rooming houses, to be approved on health grounds.

DON'T MEET STANDARD

David A. Cooper, Skeena Health Unit sanitary inspector from Terrace, said that he and Dr. Laing had inspected the premises and due to the fact that most of them didn't come up to the standard set by the city by-laws and regulations, he would be probably recommending they not be renewed.

"What is the point of having a by-law covering these rooming houses or any dwelling with three rooms or more where people are charged for lodging, if the by-law isn't going to be observed."

Alderman Smith said that many of the sub-standard lodgings had been started during the Second World War, which housing was at a premium and nothing had been done about them since.

"The dwellings either conform to the regulations or they do not conform," Mr. Cooper said, "Possibly you thing the by-law is too strict for Prince Rupert?"

RECOMMEND REFUSAL

Ald. Smith said that if the sanitary inspector felt the by-law should be enforced regarding these rooming houses, then he should recommend that those that didn't come up to standard be refused their trade licences.

Alderman Norman Bellis said that Mr. Cooper should process the applications within the letter of the by-law and then turn them back to city council.

Mr. Cooper agreed, adding that he would make a note on the one he was recommending for refusal of licence, stating why it contravened the by-laws.

Dr. Laing told the meeting that he had received a complaint from a Borden Street resident about rats. He had been informed, by telephone that in the 900 block "the rats were terrible."

The meeting felt that unless a condition which was the responsibility of the city, was attracting the rats, it was up to the individual to exterminate rats around his home.

It was pointed out that persons bothered by rats could obtain poison and containers by applying to the city.

Regarding complaints of garbage dumped within the city limits, Dr. Laing said that in several cases he had been able to track down the culprits and have them remove the offensive refuse.

However, he said, there were many anti-dumping signs placed within the city which didn't come within provincial jurisdiction, and he felt that police patrols which were always on the move could provide a little more assistance in spotting persons illegally dumping refuse anywhere else except the proper city garbage fill at Algoma Park, and within the prescribed hours.

Next quarterly meeting of the Union Board of Health will be held in January, 1956.

ALASKA MUSIC TRAIL concert-goers will be seeing double next Wednesday when Joanne (left) and Joanne Nettleton, 25-year-old St. Louis duo-pianists make their appearance at the Civic Centre in the opening concert of the 1955-56 season. The Nettleton twins are the first duo-piano team whose work together dates from early childhood, a circumstance said to have contributed to the unique co-ordination of their ensemble. Varied, four-section program is scheduled by the Nettletons, only twins on the concert circuit today.

1,000-Mile Flight Made To Arctic For Navy Man

WINNIPEG (CP)—An RCAF Dakota aircraft from Winnipeg was sitting at Coral Harbor, 1,120 miles north of here, today waiting to pick up an ailing ship's captain of the navy's northern patrol vessel Labrador, who was reported to be suffering from hemorrhaging ulcers.

The Labrador, which has been exploring Arctic waters for the navy, was scheduled to dock today at Coral Harbor on the south coast of Southampton Island. Cmdr. J. M. Leaming of Victoria, the ship's executive officer, will take over command.

After picking up Capt. Robertson, the Dakota will fly to either Fort Churchill or Winnipeg, depending on the treatment required.

In Ottawa naval headquarters said Capt. Robertson became ill last week and was treated by the ship's medical officer, Surgeon Lt.-Cmdr. D. J. Kidd of Halifax, in the Labrador's sick bay.

However, it was decided as a precautionary measure to evacuate Capt. Robertson to hospital for further treatment.

Air force officials here said the long flight was made in good flying weather. The Dakota, piloted by FO Henry Marcotte, left Winnipeg at 2:30 p.m., refuelled at Fort Churchill, 610 miles north, and landed at Coral Harbor at 11:27 p.m.

Aboard the plane were Flt. Lt. James O'Carrol, a doctor from Ireland now stationed at Winnipeg and Nursing Sister Marion Nelly of Middleton, N.S. They were to consult with the Labrador's doctor on arrival.

Rotary Club Granted $465 For Work On Terrace Park

Special to The Daily News

TERRACE — A grant of $465 will be made to the Terrace Rotary Club by the Village Commission for work done on Little Park, it was decided at the Commission meeting this week.

Money is part of that allocated for parks work. Commissioners decided to make grant to the service club as the Rotarians had volunteered to do work of building up the park area.

Exclusive of voluntary labor and materials donated by firms and residents, $1,153 has been expended on Little Park. The commission has granted $1,130 toward Little Park expenses.

VILLAGE RATES LOWER

In other business, a comparison between Terrace and other villages on charges made to householders for connecting with the water main, showed Terrace rates considerably lower. Fee presently charged by the village does not cover cost of materials and labor, the Terrace commissioners learned.

Further information on the cost of fittings will be sought, however, before the commission considers a new by-law to set a new water connection fee.

The local RCMP detachment will be notified that the commission is "concerned" over the lack of enforcement of the village's parking by-law on the main street. Decision was taken following receipt of requests for action on the matter from several village organizations.

TOOK 100 ASPIRIN

COVINGTON, Ky (AP) — Regina Carter, 15, died Friday after swallowing 100 aspirins, coroner E. L. Smith reported. Members of her family said they could give no reason for the girl's action.

Albert and McCaffery with a bid of $374.02 were successful in gaining the contract to supply tiles for the fire hall floor.

A Women's Auxiliary meeting is planned for November 3 while Poppy Day will be observed in all local schools November 4.

Legion and WA members will be on the city streets from 8 a.m. Saturday, November 5, selling poppies and on Sunday, November 6, a church parade of all members and visitors will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

On November 8 a voluntary work party will assist the WA in setting up their bazaar, which will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. November 9 at the Legion auditorium.

A work party will set up seats and tables at the Armories November 10 in preparation for the banquet the following day.

On Armistice Day, some 600 members of the Legion and WA are expected out at the Cenotaph ceremonies in front of the court house.

Fishway Work Suspended For Winter

Work on the $25,000 salmon fishways project at Naden River Falls on the Queen Charlotte Islands has been suspended for the year, because of wet weather, it was reported here this week.

Contract for the two fishways was awarded in June to the firm of Horle and Tynan. Originally it was thought the project would be completed by September 30.

First part of project was the construction of a three-mile access road from Naden Harbor on the extreme north coast of Graham Island.

Two falls impede the passage of salmon upstream. One obstacle is a 10-foot falls, the other a 6-foot falls, approximately 300 yards further upstream. A fishway will be built at each falls.

...was prepared by the ...mittee of the Com- munity Arts Council of Vancouver, a completely voluntary organization representing 126 affiliated groups.

NO VESTED INTEREST

Officials of the CAC stated emphatically that there is "no vested interest" in a school of music at UBC and no private individual or commercial group will profit from it.

"The beneficiaries will be the younger generation, your children and their children's children. It is on their behalf that the brief is submitted."

The brief points out that step by step, added educational facilities have been provided at UBC. Faculties of medicine and engineering have come into being and "have proved their worth." Dentistry is to be added.

No one, the brief states nowadays seriously questions the value of "our university" to every citizen in British Columbia, "but there still remains at least one great aching gap in the opportunities it offers to ambitious young British Columbians, in the field of fine and applied art."

B.C.'s musically talented youngsters are still deprived of the chance for advanced musical education or else they must go far from home at great expense to get it, the brief says. Even the province's music teachers have to go outside B.C. to get their own training.

"Music in the public school suffers. The basic and advanced training which music teachers must have, simply cannot be given in the ordinary "normal school" course.

"It takes four years at least, specializing in music to make a competent music teacher. Training in methods of teaching and classroom procedure may be acquired at a school of education or "normal school" but the essential knowledge of music itself requires four years of intensive musical studies, leading to a recognized degree.

"This is what others have, and we in B.C. do not."

The brief states that from top to bottom in the B.C. educational system the result is felt—not just by a few potential geniuses but by the ordinary boys and girls who suffer a lack in British Columbia that they would not suffer in other more educationally advanced centres.

NUCLEUS FOR ACADEMY

Establishment of a School of Music at UBC would form the nucleus of a future Academy of Music to give all B.C. boys and girls of above average ability the same opportunity as now exists at the Royal Conservatory of Toronto for Ontario youngsters, the brief avers.

Already in Vancouver the Community Arts Council brief has been endorsed by the Alumni of the Royal Conservatory of Music, B.C. Registered Music Teachers Association; Junior League of Vancouver; Kiwanis Club of Vancouver; Sir Ernest MacMillan Fine Arts Club; Vancouver Lions Club; White Cane Club of Vancouver.

SUPPORT SOUGHT

The Community Arts Council is now seeking the support of other groups and organizations throughout British Columbia.

"In the last analysis," the brief concludes, "under our system of government, it depends on you and your neighbors—as citizens and trustees of the future—whether or not our children may have these educational advantages. You can definitely help bring it about."

At a recent MacMillan scholarship ceremony in Vancouver 1,400 members of the audience personally and individually added their written endorsement for forwarding to Education Minister Ray Williston.

The Prince Rupert Music and Drama Festival Association, having endorsed the brief itself, will give Prince Rupert residents the opportunity at the conclusion of this series of articles in Monday's issue of The Daily News.
