THIS MORNING'S ARRIVALS

Prince George Was Held Up by a Jap on the Way Down.

The Prince George sneaked in this morning without blowing her siren, and thus disappointed a number of people who were listening for the joyous shriek before starting to meet the boat. On the way down the steamer was held up off Warke Island by a solitary Jap in a dinky boat. The Jap held up his oar and frantically waved it. The steamer slowed up, wondering whether it was a case of murder, sudden death or shipwreck. When the Jap was alongside he yelled: "I wanta go Vancouver." The captain said an unspoken word and let the Jap wait.

Among those arriving on the Prince George this morning were: J. Bolton, H. J. Oleson, W. D. Edgecomb and wife, F. M. Prail, H. J. Wren, W. E. Graves, W. M. Dunlop, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, C. E. Cairns, S.
