Not guilty plea entered by 10

Due to a typographical error in yesterday's edition of the Daily News 10 persons' names appeared as pleading guilty to being members of an unlawful assembly.

The article should have read 10 persons pleaded not guilty to being members of an unlawful assembly.

The 10 names involved are as follows: Gerald Burbidge of Kitimat, Albert McKay of Prince Rupert, Raymond Wesley of North Pacific, Lucian Lorentz of Prince Rupert, Charles Aaron of Port Edward, Antonio Cesarone of Prince Rupert, Dennie Herbert Dixon of Prince Rupert, Rena Eli of Aiyansh, Elizabeth Davis of Port Edward, and Norman Grandison of Cassiar.

Blood donor

Junior Chamber of Commerce. Persons wishng to donate blood during the evening of either Thursday or Friday may avail themselves of this free transportation service by telephoning 4326.

Registration and reception is being handled by the Prince Rupert General hospital Women's auxiliary. The Prince Rupert branch of the B.C. Registered Nurses association will attend donors during the rest period and refreshments to donors will be served by the Women's Co-ordinating council.

The International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers Local 708, has endorsed the blood donor campaign, president E. P. O'Neal said today.

Pledge cards have been distributed to all members through the co-operation of the Columbia Cellulose Company Ltd., Watson Island, personnel department, Mr. O'Neal said.

"A half hour of your time could mean a lifetime for someone else," Mr. Applewhaite said in his plea today for public support.

The clinic is under the supervison of the Prnce Rupert branch while the collection, storage and transport[illegible] is under the administration of the technicians of the provincial Red Cross branch, Mr. Applewhaite said.

The clinic arrives from Kitmat where it staged a successful three-day blood donor's drive.

Motorist remanded

Stanley Koshman, 26, of 521 erman Street was remanded in City Police Court this morning without plea for trial August 14 on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

When your partner makes an opening lead he has just two things to go on—his cards and the bidding.

If you are the partner of the opening leader and win the first trick, you have four things to go on. You, too, have heard the bidding and of course you can see your own hand.

But in addition you have had a look at the first trick and even more important, you can see the dummy hand.

YOUR CHOICE of what card to lead at the second trick is often more crucial than your partner's choice of an opening. There are very few textbook rules to guide you in this situation. You must rely on judgment and imagination.

In today's deal, Mr. Abel opened the seven of spades and Mr. Masters won with the ace. One course open to Mr. Masters was at this point was to return his partner's suit.

An examination of the dummy, however, made it clear this would only help Mr. Dale to set up dummy's queen, possibly for a valuable discard.

The bidding:

|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♥ | 1 ♠ | 2 ♥ | 2 ♠ |
| 4 ♥ | All Pass | | |

There seemed to be no advantage in a trump lead since if Mr. Abel had a trump trick he would get it without a lead of the suit from Mr. Masters.

Surely nothing was to be gained from a lead to dummy's diamond holding and that brought Mr. Masters down to a consideration of the club suit, which seemed to be the enemy's weakest spot.

He followed a good rule when he led the 10 of clubs, the top of two touching cards which just outranked the highest club on the board. Against this lead Mr. Dale was helpless.

He ducked the first club, then won with the ace when Mr. Masters continued the suit. After three rounds of trumps he led his last spade. Mr. Abel stepped in with the king and cashed the king of clubs for the setting trick.

If Mr. Masters had thoughtlessly returned a spade at trick two, dummy's queen would have been set up in time to provide a club discard from the closed hand.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Dizzy Dean of St. Louis Cardinals made a major league strikeout record, fanning 17 Chicago batters 25 years ago today. The famous pitcher was later bought by the Cubs for $185,000 and three players. Five years later Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians set the current record, 18 strikeouts.

UFAWU—not BCP

The Grand Parade float listed as being entered by British Columbia Packers in the August 4 edition of the Daily News was not sponsored by B.C. Packers but was carried on their truck.

The float was actually entered by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

The editor's apologies also go to the members of the Canadian Legion, whose float also missed mention in the original story.
