TEN TONS OF ART rolled into one massive canvas, the monumental Pantheon de la Guerre, lies inside this giant crate at Kansas City, Mo. Rolled on a special spindle for shipment, the painting, second largest mural in the world, when unrolled is 420 feet long and 45 feet wide. Painted by 129 French artists during the First World War, the enormous work was shipped to the U. S. for exhibition in 1927. In storage for much of the time since then, the painting was last unrolled in 1953. Now, its present owner has presented it to Kansas City and the American segment of the mural will be placed on the wall of Memory Hall in Liberty museum.

squad is entirely in the hands of the managers of each team entered.

Players asked to play on All-Star teams are allotted 48 hours notice before game time to give notice of their unavailability.

Any player who accepts to play in an All-Star game and fails to appear will be suspended by the Commissioners for three regular league games, plausible excuses allowable.

It was decided in future to hold regular league meetings the first Wednesday of every month.

Team insurance for league teams is being investigated by Mr. Harrington.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Crossfire

In ten years the U. S. death rate from tuberculosis has tumbled 75 per cent.

Medical authorities attribute this startling drop to powerful new drugs, along with better methods of detecting the disease in early stages, better living and working conditions, and improved surgical techniques.

Tuberculosis is not entirely beaten, but public health authorities now have the disease so well in hand that many once-crowded tuberculosis hospitals have closed down for lack of patients. But the battle has had its setbacks, too.

Patients treated with streptomycin at first showed spectacular improvement. Later, the antibiotic seemed to lose its punch. Patients relapsed. The disease flared up again. Staggered by streptomycin, the TB germ retreated, then developed strong defenses against the drug.

Medical scientists countered with combinations of drugs that caught the TB germs in a deadly crossfire and once again put the disease to rout. Today, almost every active tuberculosis case is treated with such combinations.

Recently, this same mode of attack has been used against other die-hard microbes. In combatting stubborn infections, science now pins much hope on antibiotic combinations such as Sigmamycin, which not only clears up a wide range of common infections, but also strikes germs which have learned to resist even the most powerful of the older drugs.

Bail $200,000 In Drug Raid

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bail of nearly $200,000 was set in police court here Tuesday for 14 of 22 persons arrested in a lightning roundup of suspected drug traffickers.

The raid, biggest of its kind here in nearly two years, marked the climax to undercover investigation carried on by a lone RCMP officer for more than two months.

The officer, Constable Theodore Gangdal, 25, posed as an addict to glean the information that made the raid possible.
