Reeve suggests giving away part of sockeye

HANEY, B.C. (CP)—Reeve Peter Jenewein of Maple Ridge said Friday the huge Adams River Sockeye salmon run should be tapped to supply fish for a Colombo Plan effort.

He has suggested that 700,000 salmon from the run, now heading up the Fraser, would provide 100,000 cases of Sockeye for needy countries covered by the plan.

Reeve Jenewein, a veteran Fraser river fisherman, said: "It would be a goodwill gesture, reduce the enormous escapement and assure fishermen of more work.

The river now is closed to fishing, allowing hundreds of thousands of Sockeye to escape to spawning grounds. And the Fisheries Association of B.C. said recently canneries would not accept any of the late run as they were of inferior quality.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

"This is impossible," said Mr. Muzzy after he went down one on today's hand. "Count your tricks again. There was no way to set me on this deal. Somebody must have revoked."

But nobody had revoked. It was simply a matter of fine, well-timed defense.

Looking at Mr. Muzzy's hand and the dummy, it is hard to see how he could have lost more than three tricks at a spade contract. Apparently the defenders can take just one spade, one diamond and one club.

But actually Mr. Masters was able to win two tricks in spades. Do you see how?

Mr. Masters

The opening lead was a diamond and Mr. Champion overtook the queen with the king and returned then ten. The selection of the ten spot was significant. It bore a special message for Mr. Masters and of course he recognized it.

Mr. Muzzy ruffed the second diamond lead with the ten of spades. Here Mrs. Masters made a good play. Instead of overruffing, he discarded a small club.

Mr. Muzzy then led the king of trumps and Mr. Masters took it with the ace. His return at this point was vital. If he led a heart, the defenders would get only one more trick, the ace of clubs.

His thoughts went back to the second trick. His partner was known to have held the ace, jack and ten of diamonds at that time. Why had he chosen to return the ten—the lowest diamond he had which would cover dummy's nine?

Apparently he was trying to show that he would welcome a lead in the lower-ranking plain suit. And that would mean clubs. If he had wanted a heart lead from Mr. Masters he would have led the ace of diamonds at trick two.

So Mr. Masters led a club. Mr. Champion won with the ace and laid down the jack of diamonds. Mr. Muzzy was now helpless. He ruffed with the queen of spades—but then he had only one trump higher than Mr. Master's nine, which was guarded by the lowly but important deuce.

"You mean to say—just 3-a-day may send backache away!"
Sounds good! Logical, too! You see the normal job of the kidneys is to remove excess wastes and acids—so often the cause of backache—from the system. Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate the kidneys in this function and so may bring you that welcome relief from backache they have many others. Try just 3-a-day. You can depend on Dodd's—in the blue box with the red band. 64
