BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

Mr. Champion Rebids No Trump After Knowing Partner's Strength

Remember this. When you open with one of a suit it isn't your first bid which tells your partner how strong your hand is. That job is done by your subsequent rebids—and especially your first rebid.

In today's hand Mr. Champion had all suits stopped but he correctly decided his hand was too strong for a one no trump opening. He bid one club and when his partner responded with a diamond, he knew the time had come to show his full strength.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Using Dynamic Point Count in which three points are equal to one trick, he had 19 points in high cards or slightly better than the six tricks required for a jump to two no trump. For her values, Miss Brash had six points in high cards, a diamond suit which looked like it might bring in something extra and a couple of 10 spots which might conceivably help. Enough for a sporting shot at the no trump game.

Mr. Abel led the six of spades which was taken with the king in the closed hand. Looking the dummy over, Mr. Champion admitted to himself that he might have a problem of two. It would be fortunate if the defender holding the ace of diamonds had no more than one other card in that suit. If so, dummy's long diamonds could not be shut out. Even then the club suit would have to work out favorably to bring in nine tricks.

Giving himself every chance, Mr. Champion timed the play as follows: He led the seven of diamonds and played dummy's eight. Mrs. Keen correctly held off with her ace.

A club was returned and the jack finessed. Now the nine of diamonds was overtaken with dummy's ten and again Mrs. Keen held off.

At this point Mr. Champion knew he had all the diamond tricks he was going to get. He finessed the queen of clubs, then laid down the ace. When the king dropped he could count five club winners, two diamonds and two spades. Close—but still nine tricks.

A tournament for the championship of all mixed five-pin bowling leagues will be staged tonight with a new trophy at stake.

Manager of the Prince Rupert Bowling Alleys Jack Sedgwick, said today that the new Steve Dziapka Memorial trophy will be on the block tonight as all winners of the four major five-pin leagues play a five-game series starting at 7 p.m.

Steve Dziapka, was the victim of a hit-and-run accident last year. He died of the injuries he received in the accident and the driver of the death car has never been found.

Taking part will be the following league champions:

Shop-Easy of the Thursday Night Mixed Five-Pin league; Nabob Percs of the Wednesday night Mixed loop; Neal Evans Transportation of the Celco City league and Woodroom of the Local 708 mixed league.

Bob Bear Wins Snooker Tourney

Bob Bear, 19-year-old cue artist from Flin Flon, Manitoba won the Brunswick Bulk pool trophy Sunday night in a best two out of three games snooker tournament staged at Giordano's Pool hall.

The tournament, in which 35 players too part, ran from last Tuesday to Sunday night in the Dominion club, Sixth Street.

Placing second in the tourney was Fred Sontag; who was beaten by Bear in two games straight.

The winner was presented with $25 in cash and the Brunswick Bulk trophy while Sontag captured the Dominion club trophy. In third place was Laurie Guedo who was defeated by Bear in an earlier series. He won ten free games of pool.
